CONSTITUTION AND BY-LAWS ARE ADOPTED

At a meeting of the Danville Automobile Trade Association the final touches to the organization were applied. A constitution and by-laws, presented by a committee named for the purpose of drawing them up, were adopted with a few changes and revisions, and chairman of the two divisions of the organization were named. These are C. K. Carter, chairman auto dealers division, and R. E. Baumann, chairman tire and accessory division.

A membership committee was appointed to get to work at once on every auto and accessory dealer in the city not a member of the organization and to get them in the association.

At the meeting last night a resolution was passed dedicating the organization to the service of the public, eliminating crooked practices and otherwise establishing an effective liaison with the public.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Chronic coughs and persistent colds lead to serious lung trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion; an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with a twofold action. It discovers and kills the inflamed membranes and kills the germ.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by the medical fraternity as the greatest healing agency for the treatment of chronic coughs and colds and other forms of throat and lung troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and kills the germs that lead to consumption.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of chronic coughs and colds, bronchitis, asthma, whooping cough, and other forms of throat and lung disease, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or the flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Atlanta, Ga.

Says—Now Stiff Joints Must Go!

New Discovery Limbers 'Em Up and Even the Creaking Ceases.

Yes! It's true—the world progresses. All you have to do nowadays to limber up that stiff, rusty knee joint is to squeeze half an inch of miracle working substance from a tube.

Then rub it on the offending part for about a quarter of a minute, or until it soaks through the skin, and disappears on its errand of mercy.

Then read the evening newspaper and go to bed.

The chances are that your misbehaving knee joint will lose the "creak" while you are dreaming about the high tensions you used to leap when you were a youngster.

"And in the morning," says one who has tried the new discovery, "you'll feel so happy that you'll want to jump into your sportiest clothes and walk briskly down the street just to show the neighbors that you are not as old as they think you are."

Joint-Ease: They call this wonder working substance for the reason that when ordinary remedies fail to limber up the stiff, inflamed rheumatic joint, or reduce the swelling Joint-Ease succeeds.

It's a good name for a good, clean, stainless prescription that in just a few months has proven to a multitude of people that lame, swollen, distorted joints can speedily have the kinks taken out of them and work as smoothly as ever.

But Joint-Ease is for bothersome joints, whether in knee, ankle, hip, shoulder, spine or finger, and for that purpose its sale is immense.

Druggists everywhere report a big demand.—adv.

Two Short-Change Artists Caught After Long Chase

A chase that began at Milton and ended at Gretna yesterday afternoon, and which, at times, was close and exciting, resulted in the capture of H. H. Fitch, of Ohio, and Edward Cavanaugh, of New York, alleged short-change artists, who, it has been said about them is true, displayed a cleverness and daring worthy of a better cause.

Fitch and Cavanaugh began their operations in Milton shortly after noon yesterday. They went into a number of merchants' stores and bought goods, for which they invariably tendered a twenty dollar bill. About the time change was being made the two men suggested buying goods. This interrupted the making of change, confused and the upset in each case was that the two men got away with the goods and about $10 over and above their original twenty dollar bill.

Finally the two men came to the store of J. H. Winsted and tried their stunt. It succeeded, but was discovered almost before the two men got out of the store. Mr. Winsted gave chase and was joined by others.

Fitch and Cavanaugh left Milton as fast as an old Chevrolet touring car would carry them. The car bore a North Carolina license tag.

Proceeding along the road to Danville, Winsted and his companions almost caught up with the short-change artists a number of times. Just before they reached Danville the pursued dashed across the railroad track just ahead of a long freight train.

Before the train had passed and allowed continuance of the pursuit the two men had gotten out of sight.

Winsted then came to Danville and reported to Chief of Police Bell, who assigned some of his patrolmen to the job of finding Fitch and Cavanaugh, if possible.

Trace of the men was found in North Danville, where they had attempted to short-change a merchant. Again between this city and Chatham the two men stopped at Bryant's store and worked their game successfully.

The police at Chatham were notified by telephone, but the two men had passed through that town. Gretna authorities were then notified and about midnight the two men were stopped by Officer Ben Simpson. They were taken before Mayor Webb, who questioned them, but they had little to say. Their car was searched and a lot of women ladies' apparel was found. This lent credence to suspicion that the car, bearing North Carolina license tag, was a stolen machine.

About 7 o'clock last night Special Officer Pugh and Chief of Police E. P. Hinson, of Chatham, arrived in Danville and took Fitch and Cavanaugh in and took them to the jail.

They were placed in jail in Chatham last night and will be held in connection of the grand jury. As part of their operations was conducted in Virginia the two men will be tried in this state first for short-changing.

The persistence of Mr. Winsted, of Milton, in keeping right on the track of the two men was largely responsible for their speedy apprehension.

TRIANGLE CENTERS ABOUT HOMESICK WAR BRIDE

BY JACK JUNGMEYER

LOS ANGELES, March 2.—Homesickness, sly fomenter of misery, case of Yvonne Wilmot, Belgian war bride.

It overwhelmed her love of husband, provoked spurious affections for a bachelor neighbor, drove her to the verge of suicide and then shattered an extraordinary triangle of unhappiness with a pistol shot.

The aftermath will come in the trial here March 8, of Scott Wilmot, her husband, charged with wounding Paul Peters, Greek chef, whom he accuses of taking advantage of Yvonne's acute longing for homeland to "alienate her affections."

Looming behind the legal predicament of Wilmot, Canadian war hero, is the pathos of a myriad alien brides forsaking familiar faces, scenes and language with the betwixt plea: "Whither thou goest, I will go; and they people shall be my people."

Girl Weds at 16.

Yvonne, 21, vivacious, romantic, made the ancient submission when a Belgian refugee of 16 in London, she married a shell-shattered youth of the recuperation camps.

She had been a belle of Aix La Chapelle, sheltered and well-to-do before the coming of the war. Afterward she lived among strangers in a little, meagerly furnished house while her husband, subject to spells of invalidism, worked for bare necessities as a clerk.

Next door, in a big house, lived Paul Peters, 30, whose flashing black eyes and comforting assurance invited neighborliness.

He listened sympathetically to her prattle and yearning for the homeland. Assuredly there were ways of getting back to Europe, he suggested.

Mrs. Wilmot saw in Peters the means of gratifying that poignant yearning, transcending now even love of mate. She gave him her jewels, linen, tea set and finally deserted her home for him.

All this she set forth in the lurid confession subsequently made at a trial, which sent Wilmot to Peters' home with a gun after he had lain four hours in a faint.

With his brother, he confronted Peters and shot him in general through the door of the bathroom where the alleged interloper had taken refuge.

Then, with blood streaming, Peters added his name to Mrs. Wilmot's confession, saying he had been deceived by her.

"I went to the house to compel the Greek to take care of Yvonne, after what he had done," said Wilmot. "I was sure he would be as good as suffering a shell shock relapse at the time under the blow of revelation."

Couldn't Console Her.

"My wife was homesick, pining for her country and I didn't have time to console her," Peters had time to say.

Said the wife: "Paul promised me everything—a trip to Europe—and I fool that I was listened. When I asked him to return my things his attitude changed. I have ruined my husband's life and I'm heartbroken. I wanted to drown myself."

Peters makes formal denial of the accusations upon which Wilmot relies for acquittal.

Yvonne's errand effect has returned. "She will not go back to her beloved Belgium," she hopes for her husband's vindication as the basis for full reconciliation. Her bitter experience, she asserts, has completed that painful weaning from old ties through which so many war brides have passed.

"I go where he goes, and share what he has," she reaffirms the old vow of expatriated wives.

SHIP BILL PASSED

WASHINGTON, Mar. 1.—Appropriations aggregating $20,950,000 for modernization of battleships and reimbursement of contractors as a result of the naval scrapping program under the Washington arms conference treaty, were approved today by the Senate. The House previously had approved the item.

Japanese Supplies Short.

"According to the latest figures available there are now 25,000 bales of raw silk in Japan of which 5,000 bales are unsuitable for export and 400 still are under inspection," E. E. Basch, of A. B. Elliman and company, raw silk brokers said. "That leaves a possible 20,000 bales for export, a stock materially lower than it has been for several months. In fact the price of silk has advanced since last October in almost direct ratio to the decrease of these Japanese stocks. At last, too the Japanese domestic demand has awakened and manufacturers in that country are bidding for silks against the foreign consumer which have been the factor which caused in part the latest jump in prices."

Domestic Consumption Mounting.

Domestic consumption in this country in January amounted to 24,600 bales and was equally as great in February. On February 1 there were in warehouses in this country about 47,000 bales—more than one and one-half months' supply. Careful canvases of the manufacturers in Patterson, Philadelphia and in other centers indicated today that few if any of the mills had laid in heavy supplies when silk was at lower levels. The majority have supplies for little more than a month on hand and must come into the market within that time to replenish their stocks.

Finished Silk Prices To Rise.

The above are the factors which support the contention prices of the finished silk products to the consumer must advance. However, manufacturers are unworried at the prospect. Last year factories all over the country were closed or operating only on part time. Manufacturers declared they could not operate on $8 silk. Now those same factories are working full time, there is even a shortage of skilled workers and some of the makers who before were buying raw silk only as they received a definite order now are running off 500 yards additional on every 1,000 yard job feeling sure they can sell the additional yardage.

Buying Power At High Point.

Dealers point out that cotton goods, woolen goods, steel, copper and other commodities have advanced materially in price since January 1, without checking consumption and are confident silk goods will follow the same course so long as consumer purchasing power remains as high as at present.

As to that power, the Federal reserve board announced today that production in basic industries has reached a point equalled only once in the past. Industrial employment has continued to increase and the rate of turn over of merchants has increased decidedly.

Steel prices continued to move into higher territory and production records are being made in spite of labor shortage. About 8,000 more workers could be used in the Pittsburgh district alone. Advances in oil prices which have been general in the Rockies is expected in the California fields shortly.

The new telephone rates which went into effect throughout New York state today and which will yield $2,500,000 additional revenue annually to the New York telephone company, are expected to have a psychological if not an actual effect on rate adjustments in other sections.

CONFEREES BEGIN WORK ON FARM CREDITS MEASURE

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Mar. 1.—Senate and House conferees began work late today on the agricultural credits bill, passed today by the House. The two meetings were held and it was said prospects were bright for an early agreement.

The bill includes portions of two Senate bills—the Capper and Ten Root-Anderson measures—both of which went through the Senate by overwhelming majority and before the conference began House conferees expressed the opinion that quick action would be had.

House opponents of the measure indicated today that they did not base high hopes on material changes in the conferees.

Find Slain Man Planned Ocean Trip With Girl

Detectives Believe Jealous
Rival Knew Schneider's
Purpose and Lured Him to Death.

NEW YORK, March 1.—Frederick Schneider, a wealthy contractor, murdered in his automobile in a lonely spot in the Bronx late Monday afternoon had planned to sail shortly for a trip to Bermuda with a young girl. This was admitted tonight by detectives who are investigating the slaying.

The girl's first name is Bernice. If detectives know her last name they would not give it out.

They said she was the daughter of a Bronx merchant. She was much younger than her father, Mr. Anna Schneider, the divorced woman who had been living in Schneider's apartments until he was killed.

According to the detectives, Bernice and Schneider had made full arrangements for the trip. Reservations for staterooms for the voyage and hotel accommodations in Bermuda had been made.

The detectives believe a jealous woman learned of the proposed trip and decided to call Schneider to account. They believe it is she who drove the last drive the bridge built, and killed him when they had reached a spot which she had before selected.

The detectives said they had also learned that all was not peaceful between Schneider and his daughter. They said the pair quarreled in the lobby of a Bronx motion picture theater recently. They would not say what the quarrel was about or how long it continued.

Two clues in the case of the unnamed woman were also uncovered today. While the detectives were investigating all the new angles, Miss Buzi changed her actions in Bronx county jail where she has been detained as a material witness.

She refused to see District Attorney, Gordon. She engaged a lawyer who announced he would at once ask for a writ of habeas corpus to get his client free.

U. S. Sportsmen Slated to Appear Abroad This Year

NEW YORK, March 2.—The battleground of international rivalry in sports will shift this year from the United States to Great Britain.

The program of events arranged so far indicates that many of the fixtures in different branches of competition, contested on this side of the Atlantic last season, will take place abroad this year. In several instances the United States will defend its championship honors on foreign fields and waters.

While the final Davis Cup matches will be held in this country again, with America defending its team title, leading contests in golf, yachting and track and field sports will be staged on the other side.

The Walker Cup, emblematic of the amateur team golf championship successfully defended here last season by America, will be contested for on British links, but unless several stars change their minds before spring, it is unlikely that the United States will be able to muster its strongest array for the invasion in May.

The American amateurs also will compete in the British individual tournament while several of America's foremost professionals are expected again to take part in the British open championship won last year by Walter Hagen, American home-bird star. At present it is doubtful if any organized British invasion for the principal golf events in this country will be made.

Contests for both the British-American Cup team trophy and the Seawanhauk-Corntham Cup individual trophy, among six-metric yachts both will be staged in Scottish waters in August. The team cup was won off Long Island last summer by American craft, but the individual yacht prize was carried overseas by the British sloop Colla.

Harvard and Yale track stars have arranged to meet a combined Oxford and Cambridge team in England in July, and it is possible that this country also will be represented in international track and field meets at Paris in May and Sweden in July.

Syracuse lacrosse team will add to the flavor of international competition abroad by invading England in June.

Methodists Plan Home For Aged and Orphans

HARRISONBURG, Va., March 1.—
Announcement was made here yesterday by the Rev. John C. Coppen-haver of the Harrisonburg Methodist church that a charter had been granted by the State Corporation Commission for the Home for the Aged and Orphans of the Baltimore
Conference Methodist Episcopal Church South with the principal office at Woodstock, Shenandoah county.

Dr. J. Howard Wells of Baltimore, former pastor of the local church, is named president of the Corporation which will erect and maintain a home for the aged and orphans at a site not yet selected. M. L. Walker of Woodstock is named as one of the trustees.

The charter permits the trustees to hold no more than 500 acres of real estate at a value not exceeding $1-000,000 and personal property not to exceed $250,000.

It was added that the proposed home and orphanage will be located on one of the numerous sites favored in the Shenandoah Valley. From another source it was learned that Gaithersburg, Md., is also being considered but it is believed that the January approximately 3,000 cases of whiskey were exported from Bermuda and the boat owners do not hesitate to say it is destined for the United States.

Learn the truth about Fertilizer

Commercial fertilizer is not magic.
It is no substitute for work, or for farming brains. It will not make a successful farmer out of a shiftless, ignorant failure. Fertilizer varies in quality like corn or tobacco or cotton, and some brands are worth more than others. Good fertilizers, like Royster's reliable old mixtures, are a godsend to good farmers who learn how to best use them to make money.

Each crop has its individual food requirements; different soils require different treatment. Every Royster fertilizer is a scientifically balanced food ration, compounded from the best materials obtainable in the proportions best calculated to supply the needs of the crop for which it is intended.

Nearly 40 years experience enters into the making of the Royster mixtures, and hundreds of thousands of the country's best farmers put their faith to this famous old brand.

Remember, it is necessary to use sufficient fertilizer per acre to get worthwhile results. If you starve your crops you'll get the same results as if you starve your stock.

Unless a farmer is going to use Royster's fertilizers properly, we'd rather he'd misuse and abuse some other brand. We are proud of the Royster reputation for quality, and will preserve it in every way. To Congress Clears Path For Closing Next Sun., Mar. 4

(By The Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Mar. 1.—Congress today cleared the path to its adjournment next Sunday by passing three of the important measures at the top of the list leaving only comparatively minor measures for the two days left for active work.

The farm credit bill was passed by the House and sent to conference by an overwhelming vote of 405 to 38 while the Senate was passing the "filled" milk bill and the last appropriation measure, the deficiency bill. Numerous small bills also were passed by the House and the Senate held a night session to work upon its list of minor measures.

Prompt agreement at conference on the farm credit bill, "filled" milk and $157,000,000 deficiency appropriation bills were predicted and there enactment was regarded as certain.

With the important legislation safely in its way, discussions occurred in both Senate and House for right of the day on pending measures. In the Senate the government employees salary reclassification, the child labor constitutional amendment and the "truth in labeling" bill and for consideration of the Senate the constitutional amendment to advance the meetings of Congress and the date of presidential inaugurations and a score of other measures were in the balance in the final hundred nominations were confirmed today by the Senate, but the many recent judicial and other important nominations went over to the House for consideration. Among these were a nomination for a local lawyer to be a member of the Tariff Commission, and of William C. Danning to be a member of Civil Service Commission.

Getting Rid of a Stubborn Cough Is Child's Play Now

Make the Medicine Yourself at Home. It's Cheap—but You Can't Beat It.

If you want to take care of that bad, hang on cough and do it in a few hours, better get one ounce of Par-mo (double strength) and mix a half pint at home.

You can do this in two minutes by adding a little sugar and enough water to fill a half pint bottle.

You'll travel the world over before you get a medicine that will be so sure, and quickly on the mucus membrane of the nose and throat it halts the inflammation the tickling sensation stops with the first spoonful, the heavy breathing goes and clean membranes free from irritation and mucus follow.

For Catarrhal conditions such as mucus dripping, clogged nostrils and watery eyes it won't disappoint—ask your pharmacist (double strength). Speak plainly to the druggist will know exactly what you want—adv.

Ignorance Bane Of Civilization Says Dr. Smith

KING TUT'S DAD RISKED REALM TO WED A SERVING MAID

BY GENE COHN
(Special to The Bee)

SAN FRANCISCO, March 3.—The great red Egyptian monarch, hanging over the Nile, inspired in men and women 3500 years ago the same passions it inspires today.

Love, as self-sacrificing and un-reckoning of consequence as any love detailed in a modern novel, dominated the lives of the people of ancient Egypt, though inscriptions have taught us to look upon the mas stiffs, wooden-like creatures.

The sensation of a royal love scandal was stirred in the Nile valley when King Tutankhamen, monarch whose tomb has just been opened, was born. For Amenhotep III, father of Tutankhamen, so loved that he cast tradition to the winds, scorned marriage alliance with powerful neighboring nations and married Ti, a simple lady-in-waiting.

Scarab Tells Tale.
All this is revealed in an age-worn, carved piece of stone—the marriage scarab of Amenhotep—which has lain 30 years practically unnoticed in a glass case in the University of California Anthropological Museum.

And this is the story of the hieroglyphics, tell it to Prof. H. F. Lutz, Egyptologist at the university, and as Prof. Lutz tells it to you.

The scarab proves there was one pharaoh to whom love was greater than throne or power.

To understand Tutankhamen one must know the story of his father, Amenhotep, and of Ti, lady-in-waiting, whom he made queen.

"We have the gossip over the back fence about the latest newspaper scandal can but slightly imagine the storm that broke over Egypt when it became known the pharaoh was wed to his mother's maid—that spelled calamity."

Broadcasts News.
"Yet this scarab shows Amenhotep did just that and, what is more important, he made no effort to hide it. He signed his fingers at tradition and broadcasted these scarab notices that he was to wed a mere servant."

"Until this love rebellion the people had considered the royal marriage divine. Now they were disillusioned."

"Their faith crumbled. Here was one of their own kind as queen, a creature of common clay. It did not augur well for those that were to follow."

"The result of this mating was Akhenaten, father of the woman Tutankhamen married. Tutankhamen, himself, was not born of Ti but of another wife."

The scarab tells us as fine a story of courageous love as may be found anywhere."

To Americanize Foreigners Now In United States

(By The Associated Press)

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Mar. 1.—Plans for the Americanization of seven million foreigners now in this country were briefly outlined by Secretary of Labor Davis in an address before the St. David's Welsh Organization of Pittsburgh tonight.

"We are confronted with a serious problem in our alien population," said Mr. Davis after detailing the part of the Welsh had played in American history and declaring that nearly 75 per cent. of the aliens in America who were born in Wales are today naturalized citizens.

"We have fourteen million foreigners in America," continued Mr. Davis, "seven million of whom are living among us without assuming the duties of American citizenship. We propose to enroll these aliens, to take an annual census of them, in order to provide for them opportunity to learn what America means and what the privileges and duties of American citizenship are."

"We propose to Americanize the alien before he alienates America. We propose to make him a citizen if he proves worthy of citizenship and to send him whence he came if he proves unworthy."

"Never was America in more need of sturdy, homely Welsh virtues than now. Evil arises around us which will overwhelm and destroy us unless they are met by the stalwart heart of America in the spirit of honesty and honor."

"Cynical immorality is raising its head among us and it must be conquered by that grave respect for the sanctity of the home the inalienability of the marriage tie which is inborn in the Welsh character. We must drive home to all America that the honor of the individual is the honor of the family and the honor of the family is the honor of the state. We must sanctify our family life, for no nation can long endure which is based on a foundation of broken families."

"From all the world there arises a miasma of foul political, economic and social doctrine which breeds a fever of revolt against all law and order, a plague of hate and destruction."

"In this new conflict America must hold fast to those eternal principles of right and justice laid down in our fundamental laws. American citizenship must have behind it honest patriotism; love of liberty and respect for law. We must stand firm on the principles enunciated in the birth of the Republic—right of contract and the right of free labor."

UNDUE DELAY IN NAMING JUDGES

(By The Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Mar. 1.—Charges of undue delay on the part of the administration in naming the 25 additional federal judges is authorized in legislation enacted last August were made in the Senate today by Senators Harrison, Mississippi and King, Utah, Democrats.

Pointing out that the nominations of a large number of the judges were sent to the Senate only yesterday, Senator King said he could not understand the delay, since the legislation on creating the judgeships had been passed last summer under the whip and spur of the Republican leaders who, he said, had presented a picture of "clogged fountains of justice."

Reports had been circulated last fall Senator Harrison said that the appointments were to be deferred until after the November election.

The above portrait is that of Mrs. Martha Peltrey, of the town of Elkfork, Ky., who suffered for a long time with troubles from which she could obtain no relief, until at last she took CARDUI, the Woman's Tonic.

"I was very weak. Was for 3 years no good to myself or anyone else. I just dragged around. It was a sight how thin I got. I had weak trembles all the time. My . . . stopped 3 or 4 months."

Fellowship of Prayer

Daily Lenten Bible reading and meditation prepared for Commission on Evangelism of Federal Council of Churches.

FRIDAY
Jesus the Leader

"And he said unto him 'follow me'." Mark 2:14.

Read Mark 2:14-23.

He set himself above all men that were living then or that had ever lived or that ever would live.

MEDITATION: "What a change from tax-collector to pupil and then disciple of Jesus. Our lives will be mightily changed if we follow Jesus."

PRAYER: O God, our Father, we thank thee for all the kindness and friendship that has come into our lives. Help us to be true to Christ in giving ourselves in faithful service to all this day of the world's crying need. Give us from weariness in continuing struggles, from despondency in failures and disappointments. Create in us a trust in thy presence, in the power of faith and prayer, and in the richness of thy love, through Jesus Christ. Amen.

FRIDAY, MARCH 2, 1923.

CHEATING SELF.

Word comes over the cable from Germany that Professor Röntgen, discoverer of the X-ray and who died and was cremated recently, spent his last years in poverty.

He refused to patent his discovery, believing it so valuable that he should give it to the world without making a profit from it himself. His chief income when he died was a pension of $60 a year. He lived at the home of a friend.

We have tremendous respect for Professor Röntgen's high idealism. We do not believe that his wonderful brain was capable of having the "deviation from normal" that makes egomaniacs desire to pose as martyrs. Nevertheless, he was a martyr, a victim of his ideals.

He was honest with the world. But was he really honest with himself?

From cradle to grave we have the theory of honesty drummed into us. Did you ever observe that mostly this drumming has to do with honesty in our relations to others—and that little is said about honesty to ourselves?

It is dishonest to do less or to give less than we are paid for, making due allowances for the profit system which is indispensable under our present system of economics.

It is dishonest to steal.

It is dishonest to pay a man less than he is worth—again making allowances for the necessary margin of profit to the employer.

And it also is dishonest to ourselves, to do or give materially more than we are paid for. Stripped of bunk, there is nothing admirable in Old Faithful who slaves his life away at $6 a month on a job that should pay him $100. That's an unfair arrangement, and anything unfair is a form of dishonesty. This probably will be called radical, by people who utilize "force of circumstances" to exact exorbitant profit from the unfortunate who cannot help themselves.

You today are not the same person you were years ago. And the you of the future will be different from the you of today. The future you will be a worn-out machine, with earning power reduced. And you owe to the future you, a just return on today's services so that you will not cheat the future you.

That individual of the future, YOU, is depending on you of today not to cheat him.

Röntgen, discoverer of the mysterious and invaluable X-ray, cheated his future self.

It's a good idea to apply, to this idea, this brake: It is as dishonest to attempt to get more than we are entitled to, as it is to take less.

DRAKES BRANCH, March 2.—(Grapevine Wireline.)—Uncle Phil-doozer contributes "The Fable of the New Bloom."

And it came to pass that the Populace of straw, after burning much oil in their lanterns found on Monday morn. Silas Hardcash happened to be his name, although strange to relate he had very little of this stuff about his person. However the Select Committee of Representatives offered to furnish enough dust, if Silas would but represent them in Congress, and Redress their Wrongs, which same were many.

Silas thought, and think, and then he was picked out as an Easy Mark, by the Lobbyists, and other birds of that ilk. But when they approached him with sums of currency, and tried to grease his palm, he would have none of their Boodle, but talked right out loud, denouncing them in no uncertain language, for Silas was a new Bloom you see, and had not absorbed enough Dirt to Bend to the Golden Staff.

As was to be expected, immediately upon his arrival in the Capitol Silas was picked out as an Easy Mark, by the Lobbyists, and other birds of that ilk. But when they approached him with sums of currency, and tried to grease his palm, he would have none of their Boodle, but talked right out loud, denouncing them in no uncertain language, for Silas was a new Bloom you see, and had not absorbed enough Dirt to Bend to the Golden Staff.

One day a big Moneyed Man whispered a scheme into Silas' ears that caused his ticker to miss a couple ticks. It really wasn't actual Theft the Smooth On argued, just Business.

Constant association with others who were doing it every time they got the chance had had its effect on Silas, and he used his voice in Council to further the Scheme. And when the people of the State realized that they had been Duped even once again they were Wroth. But of course that didn't help out even a little bit. Silas is now mentioned in Bradstreet's Moral. Any big Moneyed Man keeps clean at first. But they all wear out.

THE OLD HOME TOWN

AUGUST BLOPPS BAKERY WAGON WAS DIRECTLY IN FRONT OF THE BLACKSMITH SHOP WHEN A LOADED CARTRIDGE PLACED IN THE FORGE FIRE BY SOME PRACTICAL JOKER LET GO—

OBJECTIONS TO NAVY CONTINUE

(By The Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, Mar. 1.—A collateral issue in the fight for and against confirmation of James G. McNary, Southwestern banker to be comptroller of the currency, came before the Senate tonight in an executive session for consideration of several hundred minor nominations.

An effort was made to secure immediate confirmation of D. J. Crissinger, Marion, Ohio banker and present comptroller of currency to be governor of the Federal Reserve Board, but the case went over until tomorrow, or later under objection, it was said, of Senator Glass, Democrat, Virginia. Senator Heflin, Democrat, Alabama, McKellar, Democrat, Tennessee and others were reported to have urged confirmation of Mr. Crissinger without delay in the case of Mr. McNary, but there was said to be objection to filling the Federal Reserve Board vacancy while leaving open the post of comptroller.

The McNary contest was the subject of many private conferences today between Senators and the general opinion reported was that his nomination would fail of action before Congress adjourns.

There were unconfirmed reports of renewed efforts by administration leaders to have President Harding withdraw the McNary nomination, because of the objections raised, but the president was said to continue his refusal to do so and to be prepared to give him a recess appointment after Congress adjourns.

3RD DEFICIENCY BILL IS PASSED

(By The Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, Mar. 1.—The final appropriation bill of Congress, the third deficiency measure carrying $156,000,000 was passed tonight by the Senate and sent to conference. Its principal items were $75,678,000 for tax refunds, $20,950,000 for modernization and scrapping of naval vessels, $300,000 for development of American rubber supplies and $400,000 for the Federal Coal Commission.

The Senate added amendments for salary increases for a few minor employees, but after a hard fight rejected amendments by Senators Moses, New Hampshire, and McKellar, Tennessee, proposing raises for Senators' secretaries and clerks.

LEADER
BOSTON, Mar. 1.—The local lumber market continued very strong to day with spruce held at $48 to $50 a thousand feet. Yellow pine also was strong and larch was higher.

CHICAGO, Mar. 1.—There is a better tone in packing house products to day. Demand from the south is good and there is excellent inquiry from the east. Hams and salt meat are leading the demand.

DIVORCE WIFE AND MARRIES WITHOUT LEAVING BUILDING

(By The Associated Press.)
JOHNSON, CITY, Tenn., Mar. 1.—George Williams proceeded a divorce from his wife today in the circuit court on the third floor of the municipal building immediately after securing a license from the clerk on the second floor; was married by a minister on the first floor and left with wife number two, having been in the building only a few minutes.

CONGRESS BLOCS ARE DEPLORED

(By The Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, Mar. 1.—Congress "blobs" and agitation for government operation of railroads have deplored by Senator Calder, Republican, New York, in a "swan song" address today in the Senate, reviewing his 18 years of Congressional services which ends March 4, following his defeat for reelection.

Declining that American political life had not "kept pace with our great industrial development" Senator Calder declared that "government regulation and demagogic domination here and elsewhere are slowly breaking down" the railroads.

"This great arm of American industry," said Senator Calder, "of the utmost importance to all our national development, is gradually being paralyzed through governmental malevolence. It has become the sport of politicians to denounce the railroads." Senator Calder said it was time to tell the truth if

COLD DID NOT DAMAGE CITRUS CROPS OF SOUTH

WASHINGTON, Mar. 1.—The cold weather of last week did not seriously damage the citrus crops of the South, according to the weekly weather and crop review issued today by the Department of Agriculture.

Review follows:
"Citrus fruits were not seriously injured by last week's freeze in Florida, although there was some damage to buds and small trees in the southern part of the state. In California, the blossoming of deciduous fruit trees in that state; almonds were in full bloom and some early peaches, apricots and walnuts were in blossom. The damage was not heavy in that state and harvest was nearly completed in some sections; some lemons were picked but that crop was light."

There was sufficient precipitation for the needs of truck crops in the southern states, except Florida where replanting truck germinated slowly because of lack of moisture. The temperature averaged below normal in the middle of the week, but in the minimum was below freezing to the coast in North and South Carolina and nearly to the southern portions of Georgia and Alabama. There was no material damage by cold weather during the week under review, but late reports indicate that the damage from the cold of the preceding week was greater than at first thought in Mississippi, Alabama and Georgia.

"The planting of early truck, including potatoes, was carried on as far north as North Carolina and Arkansas and sweet potatoes were being planted in Georgia. The work of stripping tobacco was delayed by cold, dry weather in Kentucky and the bad condition of the roads delayed delivery. Tobacco seedlings were being prepared in North Carolina; tobacco beds were normally advanced in Georgia."

WAR TALK NOW HEARD IN BERLIN

BERLIN, March 1.—Extremists of the Right who are frankly monarchistic and anti-Semitic had their own day yesterday in Berlin as well as in Munich. In Berlin a member of the Reichstag, Major Henning addressed a meeting of the "Liberty Party." He said among other things:
"The French did not go to the Ruhr to fetch a few wagon loads of coal. No, that invasion was instituted by international Jewry. It is always the Jew that stabs the German people in the back. Very well, France will continue her action in the interest of the Jews and thus afford Germany a chance to make her dream of 1918 come true. I am living in joyful anticipation of this next war."
Here some Communists who had gained admission interrupted and there was a great row. Somebody commanded, "Boys do your duty!" whereupon a strong body of young fellows moved toward the platform near which the Communists had gathered, but the police got between the parties and succeeded in restoring order for a moment. Henning continued:

"In 1918 the Jews stabbed us in the back. This time we shall not give them a chance, we shall not go into this new war before having taken measures to protect ourselves."
Again no one drowned Henning's voice, he finally managed to make his opinion of Chancellor Cuno and President Ebert audible.

"They don't know what is really going on. To them the Ruhr invasion presents itself merely as a matter of 'liberty' and 'democracy'." They fail to realize the realistic aspect. Parties composing the Reichstag can only pass resolutions not worth the paper they are written on, but our party will only trust to the might of the fist."

In Munich Hitler made one of his blood-curdling speeches to a meeting of National Socialists. His war cry was "Down with Socialism and Jewish domination." Hitler also promised the Socialist Party that the day of reckoning was near and would not pass without it feeling his (Hitler's) heavy fist. He wants both communists and students to join his organization.

In the Bavarian Diet a member for Unterfranken called attention to the fact that large numbers of Hitler's forces had recently appeared in his province, where a dangerous rising seemed preparing.

MODERN BRIDE DRESSES IN MEDIEVAL GARB

LONDON, March 1.—Twelfth century styles and manners were adopted recently as the background to a fashionable London wedding. The bride wore a dress designed after the period and carried the once famous court train, held by two pages.
Her attendants were children, four pages and four bridesmaids. The boys were dressed in the quaint 12th century hose and jerkin of blue and silver brocade with silver belts, and the girls wore long frocks of white and silver brocade, and the bridesmaids of tall, sugar-loaf style, with floating white veils.

ENOUGH BIBLES PRINTED TO PROVIDE ALL FAMILIES WITH TWO COPIES EACH

CHICAGO, Mar. 1.—Enough Bibles have been printed in all languages in the world since printing was invented, to provide each of the earth's 3,000,000,000 families with two copies, according to an estimate made by Geo. C. Buxton, Chicago publisher, made before a meeting of the International Bible Publishers' Association.

Since the middle of the fifteenth century, when printing was invented, Buxton said, 660,000,000 Bibles have been printed. Approximately 9,000,000 copies of the Bible are printed in this country and Canada, annually, he said.

It has been estimated that 15,800,000 families out of the 23,000,000 in the United States do not have Bibles. "These figures do not reflect with exactness the religious situation," Buxton said. "The American people are inherently religious."

WAITED TILL THE COWS CAME HOME

"I am indeed glad to write you this letter. I was a terrible sufferer from gas in the stomach and colic attacks. The specialist on family doctor sent me no relief although I took his medicine. The cows came home. He finally said I would have to be operated. Luckily I heard of Naylor's Wonderful Remedy then and although it is now three years since I took a course of it, I have never had a symptom of my old trouble since. It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the natural mucus from the intestinal tract and allows the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal troubles, including appendicitis. Arab Prisoners Are Released

ROME, March 1.—With the occupation of Misurata by Italian troops the punitive war against the Arab chiefs was brought to a successful termination, the Italians having reconquered the whole Tripolitanian coast. The rebels were powerfully entrenched and armed with artillery and machine guns, but the lightning advance of the Italian cavalry from Melite and the simultaneous sortie of the Italian garrison from Misurata. Marina caught them unawares and threw them into confusion so that the Italian troops entered Misurata without much opposition.

They released some scores of Italian soldiers who had been made prisoners by the Arabs when the Italians retreated from Tripoli in 1915, and several civilians, including two girls, who had made their way to the shore from ships sunk by German submarines in the Mediterranean and who had been captured by Arabs.

When Misurata was abandoned by the Italians in 1915 the Germans decided to use it as a submarine base from which to attack shipping in the Mediterranean. They sent there a military commission composed of Osman Fuad representing Turkey, Prince Biagnani, representing Austria, and Baron von Todelarch, representing Germany. These immediately proceeded to recruit Arabs in the regular Arab army, armed them and proclaimed the Republic of Misurata.

At the end of the European war in 1919 Italy demanded as a condition of peace that representatives of the Central Empires in Tripolitania be handed over as prisoners, and in fact one after another they all fell into Italian hands. Despite their multiple escape, the Arab army, however, continued the war against Italy under orders of Romadades Seteuli, who assumed its command. Conditions were so unsettled in Italy that hitherto it was found impossible to send an expedition against him.

Though the Italian Government could not undertake a military expedition against the Arab rebels it took every measure to alleviate conditions of the Italian prisoners who were confined in Misurata and whose numbers had been swelled by survivors from submarine steamers. Among these latter were two Italian girls and three English officers. General Caron, who was then Governor of Tripoli, founded a special office for negotiating visas and means of bringing relief to these prisoners. A regular airplane service was inaugurated which daily flew over Misurata and dropped food clothes and money for the prisoners. Colonel Mai in Tripoli visited a weekly newspaper containing extracts from letters addressed to the prisoners from their families in Italy, and these papers also dropped in Misurata. Despite these palliatives the position of the prisoners was far from happy.

Hate Holidays in This School

BY JOSEPHINE VAN DE GRIFT
(Special to The Bee.)

NEW YORK, March 2.—Holidays are the worst days in the year for Olympia Pascale.

And all because a couple of school teachers and a psychologist came along and started tampering with her education.

"I'd been having trouble with my 'rhythmic,' explains Olympia. "It was about fractions and percentages and things and I made up my mind that if I ever got through the sixth grade they wouldn't catch me coming back to school any more."

"Then one day my teacher told me I didn't ever have to look in that old book again. That I was going into another room where I could sew instead of worrying over foolish old problems. I had always liked to sew and you ought to see the pretty things I started making right away. I made this dress I've got on and an apron for my mother and two gingham dresses for the school teachers. I love to go to school now. I wouldn't quit for anything."

Fairness Teaching.
But Olympia has done more than to sew. Here according to teachers at Public School No. 3 where Olympia and 99 other girls are entered in special classes, are some of the things Olympia has learned.

To take a school measure, measure a schoolmate from shoulder to knee and figure how much goods will be required to make that school mate a dress.

To go to a store, purchase material, cut it according to fashion and make a conservative, serviceable garment.

To compute how much labor has gone into the making of the garment, figure the overhead cost, trimmings, etc., and sell the garment, if necessary, at a fair profit.

All the time Olympia didn't know arithmetic had anything to do with it.

It was pretty nearly the same with Pauline Manchessi. Pauline couldn't "get" geography. But when teach-

America Helping Haitian Folk To Assert Themselves

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti, March 1.—The technical skill, the energy, the intelligence and the hard work of certain officers of the American navy, all are being expended in the interests of the island of Haiti and its people. And the year 1922 was one of peace and progress. Much was accomplished, and the work is still going on under American leadership. The Americans are teaching the Haitians to help themselves, they are endeavoring to train the Haitian personnel so that they may eventually displace all foreigners in island administration. Cooperation between the two elements, to this end, undoubtedly is making headway.

Early this year the American heads of departments made reports on the results of their labors in 1922 to John H. Russell, the American High Commissioner for Haiti, covering activities in the sanitary service, in fire protection, in police work, in public works such as irrigation, road building and communications, in the better lighting of the coasts of Haiti, and in increased shipping.

The so-called prison disease, which in the old regime, claimed 1300 out of an average of 2000 prisoners, has been reduced to the vanishing point. In 1922 the percentage of deaths in the prisons was 0.17. The death rate of the gendarmes, numbering 2414 Haitians, fell to the rate of 0.11 per thousand.

The completion of the intensive campaign against smallpox assures the prevention of its spread for several years, and the recent severe epidemic of cholera, which in 1917, dysentery, has been largely wiped out. That the Haitians are responding in greatly increased number to the free opportunities of American surgical and medical treatment is evinced by the fact that in the year 1922, 2516 applied for treatment as compared to 730 for the preceding year. Free fee dispensaries were opened in interior sections where medical facilities were non-existent for a radius of several miles.

The gendarmes have been encouraged in field and track sports, basketball, baseball, soccer and boxing, to their physical improvement. There has been a material decrease in crime in the island, and outside of vagabondage and petty theft, infractions of the law were inconsiderable. Only two automobiles were stolen throughout the year, both being recovered within a short time. There has been no semblance of uprising or banditry.

All gendarmes, in addition to their military training, are receiving a free grammar school course that has encouraged enlistment and caused favorable comment among the Haitians. For the first time in its history ever, the gendarmes have been thoroughly instructed in rifle practice, and the contests held have developed marksmanship of a surprisingly high quality. The regulation of all vehicle traffic and the registration of foreigners were assumed by the gendarmes in the closing months of the year.

Port-au-Prince is now protected against disastrous fires through the recent completion of a salt water high pressure system. The equipment of the capital's fire fighting forces now comprises two modern chemical and equipment motor trucks and a recently acquired American horse-drawn engine in which the firemen, resplendent in crimson shirts and shining brass helmets, race to the fires.

The Department of Public Works has operated a service for several years on three of the leading plains where agriculture is almost wholly dependent upon irrigation, made preliminary investigations of other needed irrigation projects, and determined that fully 100,000 acres of at present unproductive land in the great plain of the Artibonite are capable of irrigation. The newly completed diversion in the Mathaua river is also saving several thousand acres of land without tax for the water.

The Ravin Courte, Service, throughout the severe tropical storms of the year, kept the main road of the island open to traffic at all times. In addition its laborers saved the city of Grande Saline at the mouth of the Artibonite, from destruction by flood. Work has been begun on a fifteen-mile stretch of road that, when completed, will cut the present time of travel by automobile between the capital of Haiti and Santo Domingo from three days to one and will run from Las Caobas to Commandador on the Santo Domingo border.

There are today 500 kilometers of road in operation throughout the Republic. Forty bridges will be erected at inland points where traffic has been inaccessible in the rainy season. A two-year program for new road construction has been approved. Port-au-Prince now has a new automatic telephone system which will be extended to care for 800 subscribers. Pole lines for a distance of 1500 km-ers started her on an imaginary trip to Paris and gave her a lot of time tables and pictures and Pauline could pick out what boat she would go on and what hotel she would stay at and what famous places she would visit. "We've simply taken a hint from the old family doctor," explains Miss L. Pearl Whitaker, one of the teachers, "they used to sugar coat the worst tasting medicines. We've sugar-coated the three R's."

In all 100 girls have been entered in these "special classes." They are girls between the ages of 12 and 14 who, having trouble with the usual school curriculum would ordinarily quit school as soon as the law allowed. But under the new system the girls become interested in school work, their school standing is improved—and other girls are clamoring to be admitted!

comets were maintained in 1922 for the Haitian telegraph service.

The figures for last year show that telegraph traffic increased 28 per cent, and the telephone traffic doubled. The lowered cost of operation and maintenance was 17 per cent.

Four new automatic flashing acetylene type of lighthouses, with a visibility of 19 miles have been placed in commission in the past year. This adds to the lighting of Haiti's thousand miles of coastline, formerly regarded by seafaring men as the most dangerous stretch of coast in the West Indies, have given Haiti eight excellent lights. Other sides have been inspected and prepared that will afford a total of fifteen of the new automatic type of lighthouses.

There was a gain of 22 per cent, in the tonnage of merchandise carried by both steam and sail craft into Haitian ports in 1922 over 1921. The total of steamships of foreign nationality that arrived and cleared for the year was 2297, with a total tonnage of merchandise of 115,657. The sailing vessels, both national and foreign, numbered 421 with a total tonnage of 39,165.

The American naval officers who have done so much for Haiti are on special assignment from the department at Washington. They include Commander Archibald L. Parsons, corps of civil engineers, U. S. N., chief engineer of the island, Major General Douglas C. MacDougal, U. S. M. C., chief of the gendarmerie; Lieutenant Commander James M. Minter, Medical Corps, U. S. N., chief of the sanitary service and Lieutenant E. J. Norcott, U. S. N., retired, captain of the port of Port-au-Prince.

RICHMOND WANTS MEMORIAL SITE

(By The Associated Press.)
RICHMOND, Va., Mar. 1.—Declaring that the General Assembly, by diverting the original appropriation for the erection of a memorial library in honor of Virginia men and women who served in the world war has abandoned the project, Senator Morgan R. Mills, of Richmond, introduced a bill today authorizing the state to deed back to the city of Richmond a vacant lot donated by the municipality as a site for the proposed memorial.

ARMED BANDITS SECURE $66,000

(By The Associated Press.)
NEW YORK, Mar. 1.—Three armed bandits which held up and bound two jewelers in a Delany Street store, on the lower East Side and escaped with $66,000 in gems.

The trio entered the store of Max Some, and after binding and gagging him, rifled his safe of $50,000 in jewels. As they were leaving, Charles Landau, a Nassau Street Jeweler entered the store. He too, was held up and $16,000 in unset gems were taken from him. The jewelers were left helpless on the floor while the bandits fled in an automobile.

NORTH CAROLINA PAPER THAT FAILED IS SOLD

(By The Associated Press.)
ROCKY MOUNT, N. C., March 1.—The Wilmington Daily Dispatch which suspended publication several weeks ago following financial difficulties has been purchased by J. L. Horne, Jr., of Rocky Mount and Joseph W. Little of Wilmington, it was announced today.

Kellogg's Bran is Guaranteed to give relief BECAUSE IT IS ALL BRAN!

Relief from constipation, whether it be mild or chronic, will follow the regular, every day eating of Kellogg's Bran. We have thousands of letters from former sufferers who tell us that the natural "bulk-action" of this wonderful cereal product has given relief they have not known for years. We guarantee that Kellogg's Bran will free the system from constipation because it is ALL BRAN—not a composition in which bran is added. If constipation is to be permanently relieved, you must eat ALL BRAN—that's why your physician will recommend Kellogg's for constipation.

Constipation creates toxic conditions which poison the blood and every organ of the body. It slows you down mentally and physically, and creates sick headaches, nausea, bad breath, pimples—Anally, in many cases, leading to Bright's disease, diabetes and other dreaded illnesses. You must fight constipation with Kellogg's Bran regularly if you want health!

Your Horses' Teeth Can't Be Repaired

When your horse's teeth go bad he can't chew his food properly—so he bolts it. The oats slip through the teeth with the hulls unbroken, and the corn is not sufficiently ground. The digestive juices cannot act on the grains, and they pass through the body undigested and wasted. 15% of the oats fed is often lost in this way.

Feed your horses and mules Tuxedo Chop—the balanced ration. The oats are rolled, the corn crushed. It contains just those food elements which the horse requires, in the most easily digested and assimilated form.

Stop waste and keep your horses healthy by feeding Tuxedo chop. The Tuxedo Primer tells how. Let us send you a copy.

Change Date of Council Supper

The date of the informal meeting of the city council to discuss next year's budget has been changed to next Tuesday at 8:30 o'clock instead of Monday night. This was done because several members of the council are members of church boards which usually meet on Monday night and for their convenience the change was made.

Preliminary meetings are being held by the various council committees to prepare statements of needs for the various city departments. The finance committee and the public work committee met yesterday and the public welfare committee is to hold a meeting today.

Miss Inez Smith is reported ill with influenza at her home on West Paxton street.

Cook's Trial Will Be This Afternoon

The trial of Raeford Cook, who was to have been given a preliminary hearing this morning on the charge of felonious assault, was continued until this afternoon owing to the inability of George T. Rison, commonwealth's attorney of the county to be present in the morning. Cook recently was arrested at Petersburg after escaping from a local hospital where he was being treated for a gunshot wound.

M. E. Hart, who has just completed a course in agriculture at the V. P. L., is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George P. Hart, on Cole street. He will be here for a few days and then go to Norfolk agricultural experimental station.

Negress is Held For Grand Jury On Murder Charge

Julia Oden, colored, was this morning given a preliminary hearing in the police court on a charge of killing her husband, Floyd Oden, several months ago by shooting him in the back with a shotgun, and after only one witness was heard, the case was sent to the grand jury.

Oden died a few days after he was shot in the back as the result of a quarrel with his wife, the shooting taking place at their home. He was removed to Providence Hospital where he made statements to the police regarding the affair.

The defense will attempt to prove that the shooting was accidental while the commonwealth will take the view that the negress fired point blank at her husband as he was leaving the house to prevent hearing her quarrel, the trouble having started the night before and resumed on that morning.

Sergeant J. H. Martin was the only witness to testify this morning. He said that he heard of the shooting and found Oden at the hospital badly wounded, with his wife, Julia, also there. At that time the negress told the officer that she had shot her husband accidentally during a scuffle.

Oden stated that he and his wife had fallen out the night before and that she resumed the quarrel the next morning. The woman procured the gun and was jabbing him about the body with it, he told the officer. "Don't fool with me with that gun, it's loaded," he is quoted as saying, but the negress continued to press the weapon against his body. Finally he decided to get up and had gotten as far as the edge of the porch when the woman, standing but a few feet from him, fired, the load striking him in the back.

The shooting occurred on Sunday and Oden died on the following Wednesday.

Y. W. Workers To Meet Tomorrow

Mrs. Stanley Cunningham, chairman of the Membership Committee of the Y. W. C. A. and organizer of the Membership Campaign which begins Sunday, March 4th, has asked all captains and campaign workers to meet in the living room of the Y. W. C. A. on Saturday afternoon at 5 o'clock. Instructions will be given to all those having part in the campaign and each one will receive an envelope containing the necessary equipment for the house to house canvass beginning Monday, March 5th. Tea will be served and a short social period will be spent together.

The membership drive is to secure new friends and members for the Y. W. C. A. and to give those who are already members an opportunity to renew their membership. Every girl and woman in Danville will be asked to become a member. Every girl and woman standing for the best in womanhood will be a part of this worth while movement. A larger membership will mean a larger work, and the greater the field of service the more of a power for good the Young Women's Christian Association will become. One thousand members is the slogan for the drive.

POLA TAKES HER CHARLIE BACK, TWAS SAD MISTAKE

(By The Associated Press)

LOS ANGELES, March 2.—Polina Negri, Polish motion picture tragedienne, who last night announced she had broken off her engagement to marry Charlie Chaplin, stage comedian, early today made another announcement that a reconciliation had been effected.

"We have made up," said Miss Negri. "I believe that is what you call it in America. Mr. Chaplin came to my home last evening and he stayed late. I have taken him back and we are quite reconciled and engaged again. I am so happy I cannot go to sleep."

"The whole trouble came about," she said, "through a statement published in a paper that Charlie had said he was too poor to be married. That newspaper said he said this was a work-a-day world and he had to stay busy and keep away from emotional affairs and climaxes of sentiment. So of course I broke the engagement. But last night Charlie came to see me. He swore to me that he had never said such a thing. He said he talked for no newspaper at all. He said he loves me and could not live without me. And so of course, I believed him and I have taken him back."

Tennessee Pastors Put Mufflers On Wedding Bells Of Divorced

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., March 1.—At this week's meeting of the Chattanooga Pastors' Association a resolution was adopted stating emphatically that the members would not perform marriage ceremonies for divorced persons.

A similar movement has been under way for some time in several Southern cities, including Atlanta and Birmingham. Only one exception is made by the ministers—they will wed a divorced person if he or she were "the innocent party, divorced for the reason given in the

New Testament."

The resolution, which was adopted without dissenting vote, says among other things:

Over 70 Capital Gamblers Surprised at Poker Raid

WASHINGTON, March 1.—More than 70 men, most of them in evening clothes and presenting other evidences of social standing, were surprised by the police early today in a raid on an alleged gambling resort in the fashionable Northwest section of Washington, near the Metropolitan Club.

Twenty-six of them were taken to police headquarters, where they were served with subpoenas as government witnesses, but all of them gave names which the police were unable to find later in the city directory. One man, John P. O'Toole, alleged to have been the proprietor of the place, was arrested and required to post $100 collateral, which he forfeited when his case later was called for hearing. The police are understood to have been attracted to the place by the large number of expensive automobiles parked at the entrance. In the raid some cards and dice were confiscated, but no money was taken as evidence.

News of the raid, when it was disseminated over Washington several hours afterward, started many stories that nationally known residents of the Capital were involved, but the police disavowed any knowledge of these reports.

Track Walking Safer As Road Perils Grow

NEW YORK, March 1.—With the number of persons killed in street accidents increasing every year, the number killed while trespassing on railroad property or stealing rides has been reduced more than 50 per cent. in seven years. For fifteen years ending with 1915, according to the American Railway Association, an average of 10,735 were killed annually. In 1922 the number did not exceed 5,300. Simultaneously the population increased with 397 inhabitants per mile of railroad in 1915 and 427 per mile in 1922.

POINCARÉ'S ACTION HAS UPSET FRAMEWORK OF EUROPE NOW

BY H. N. BRADFORD
(The noted English author-journalist of the Liberal School, editor of the New Leader, official organ of the British Labor Party, a frequent contributor to the "New Republic.")

It is difficult to write or talk about the invasion of the Ruhr save on the assumption that a new war has begun. Morally and physically, this occupation is war. It is an effort by armed force to overcome the will of the German people, and it is precisely the terms in which Clausewitz, the classical authority, defines war.

The fact that the Germans are disarmed and can defend themselves only by passive resistance makes curiously little difference. It was not the actual movements of armies in the field which decided the Great War. The end came when the physical capacity and moral resolution of the German masses broke down behind the armies in the field. In this new struggle between the two neighbors the destruction of "marcoeurres" in the field is eliminated, and everything depends on the endurance and steadiness of the two peoples. Soldiers have warned us that the next war would be waged against the civilian population. Here it is.

The first stage is an attempt to terrorize the population of the Ruhr by an overwhelming display in their streets and at their homes of the military power of the French State. The second stage will doubtless be (we expect it from day to day) a regular blockade of the occupied area. No coal will go out to feed the industries or warm the houses of the German people beyond the occupied area. It is even possible that the entry of food will be so hampered or controlled as to bring the last of starvation to bear on the will of the Ruhr miners. One writes these things coldly. The war itself and the cruel years of peace have taught us to watch these abominations with numb feelings.

Release into barbarism.

It is too soon to discuss the results of this release into barbarism. So far the French invasion has been a conspicuous failure. The fact seems to be that the French had been so impressed by the butcheries in normal times of the "class war" in the Ruhr that they imagined that they could divide its population. The inevitable has happened, and the incorrigible stupidity of all militarism has once again prepared its own discomfiture. The invasion for the time being has been a failure. For the French, the power of passive resistance has been triumphantly demonstrated. Very wisely there has been no attempt at a general and continuous strike. Everywhere the "cat's paw" and "fodder" arms" strike meets the French staff. Affected stupidity, slow obedience, sham acquiescence, confront them at every turn. The whole vast and cunning machine of industry goes slow, and they can only stare at its intricate wheels in despair.

The result is that they have not much less coal than they were receiving before the invasion. So little coke has been obtained that the blast furnaces in Lorraine are damping down their fires. The cost meanwhile of the invasion goes mounting up. M. Poincaré must ask for credits to cover its unforeseen cost, and the French taxpayer trembles at the threat that 20 per cent. must be added to all his burdens.

Some Problems
What the next stage will bring forth can only be conjectured. When coal begins to fail for the railways and factories of unoccupied Germany, will its sorely tried population show the same steadiness as the workers on the Ruhr?

Berlin and Leipzig have no invaders in their streets to bring about a magical union of classes.

When work goes short, will the Government manage—by printing money—to provide food for the unemployed? Will the main body of the nation support it, if it is assailed now by the Communists from the left, and again from the Monarchists on the right?

How long can a bankrupt people afford to supply its need of fuel by buying British coal with gold?

Will this trial of endurance, which people, the French or the Germans, will be the first to yield.

There are ominous possibilities. So far the French are gambling with utter recklessness. The game goes against them, and they double their stakes. There is still another move which they may attempt. They have pressed their Polish allies to invade from the East.

Rivers Will Run Red
Hitherto the Poles who have suffered heavily from their susceptibility to French advice, have declined the honor. But Poland is heavily committed to France. She is surrounded by hostile neighbors and she dare not lose her only friend. French pressure may be successful, if the French lose hope of subduing the Ruhr by their present methods. Should the Poles invade German Silesia, there is no doubt that the Germans will defend themselves by arms. Should fighting begin in the East, the imagination can set no limits to it. The Red Army would probably advance and the French would march to Berlin.

Losses in this case of Turkey Bulgaria and the Little Entente (Greece, Czechoslovakia, and the Baltic States) in a few weeks the Rhine and the Elbe the Vistula and the Danube would be running red. Even without these fantastic yet possible complications, it is obvious that M. Poincaré's action has upset the cast-iron framework of Europe devised at Versailles. Wars have a way of opening out unlimited perspectives. M. Poincaré invaded the Ruhr ostensibly to get some trainloads of coal. He has in so doing upset the Versailles system.

The Passive Bond Victim
Whatever may happen in the next month or two, it is inconceivable that Germany should again relapse into her old position as the passive bond-slave of the united victors. The slave has learned to resist, and the victors have lost their unity.

Assume for argument's sake that Germany in the end may have to yield and come to terms as possible. This escapade has carried her ruin further in a few weeks than it had gone in many preceding months.

France will not get reparations. It is to be foreseen, then, that she will attempt to recoup herself by tightening her political grip on the Rhineland and the Ruhr.

There is, when we talk of France, an ambiguity which must be disentangled. The bias of average men in France really believes, or till lately believed, in the possibility of extorting fabulous reparations from the rulers of France.

It is so firmly that they believed in this simple mass suffered from another delusion. It really believed, even after the disarmament of Germany and the democratic revolution, in the danger some few years hence, of another German invasion. Its fears and its cupidity were perfectly sincere. They have been exploited by a ruling caste of financiers and soldiers, for Napoleonic ends.

A Buffer State
From the early weeks of the war onwards, M. Poincaré (then President now Premier), as the telegrams of the Russian Ambassador Izvolsky reveal, was bent not only on the economic and political "annihilation" of Germany, but on its "dismemberment."

By the early months of 1917 he had got from the Tsar a formal secret treaty assenting to the creation of the Rhineland into a buffer State under French protection. At Versailles he realized the foundations of this scheme in so far as Mr. Lloyd George and Mr. Wilson would permit. From that day to this he has worked steadily to complete it. It is partly a strategic path, an economic dream. It aims at the marriage of Ruhr coal to Lorraine iron.

It would mean the placing under French control of the main supplies of raw material in Western and Central Europe. It would involve complete economic domination for the French. From that day to this he has worked steadily to complete it. It is partly a strategic path, an economic dream. It aims at the marriage of Ruhr coal to Lorraine iron.

It is this plan, and not any mere scheme of reparations wise or foolish, which Marshal Foch is attempting to impose today. The expulsion or imprisonment of German civilian officials from the Rhineland is as much a part of it as the occupation of the Ruhr. If all goes well from the French standpoint this adventure will end in the separation for all practical purposes of the whole Rhineland and the Ruhr from the German Republic. There will be no "annexation." Modern Imperialism is not as honest as the old. But there will be complete economic and military control.

The Real Issue
It is time to discuss the British attitude to this crisis. We are living, so far as the official world and the greater part of the Press are concerned, in an atmosphere of unreality. The French talk reparations. Poincaré requires that we must talk reparations too. The result is that only in the Press of the left you find any attempt to face the real issue, though the Foreign Office and the better-informed journalists are as well aware of the facts as we are ourselves. Thus, in face of a plan of conquest as iniquitous as anything conceived by German militarism at its worst, our country is officially committed not merely to neutrality, but to "benevolent neutrality."

Spokesmen after spokesmen of the Government has declared that they sincerely wish for French success, though they doubt the wisdom of French methods. This would be a complete justification of public opinion even if reparations were really at stake. For to extort reparations to an outrageous amount by a lawless resort to arms in time of peace is a denial of all international morality, a lapse into savagery, and a provocation of open war, as well as an aggravation of Europe's economic ruin and our ruin. But when we realize that conquest is the true end, this insincerity of language and thought becomes criminal.

Coal and Oil
There is a more humiliating reason than politeness for this official weakness. While France raids Essen for coal we are holding Mosul for oil.

The chance that Lord Curzon might extort from the Turks such a peace as he desired, was never bright, but such as it was, it depended on the good will of the French. They too, would be the arbiters, if the dispute over Mosul were referred to the League of Nations.

From 1919 onwards one of the gravest dangers for us has been that we should connive at French imperialism on the Rhine, in return for its acquiescence in our imperialism at the Straits and in Iraq. For my part, I hold strongly that the British Labor Party cannot afford to connive itself to the defense of peace and the workers' rights on the Rhine alone.

The key to the Essen is in Mosul. We must not be deceived by Lord Curzon's offer to refer the question of Mosul to the League. The League offers no apparent guarantee of impartiality, and it has already assigned the mandate over Mosul to us. That decision lies in its hands. While our Government is entangled in these Eastern schemes of expansion it cannot play the part which becomes it in Europe.

MR. HARDING DEFEAT

(New York Times)
The blow dealt President Harding by the now admitted killing of the ship Saboteur bill is undeniably heavy. In attempting to force it upon his reluctant and divided party, and to drive it through a hostile Congress, he employed, at the same time, that he hazarded the whole authority of his administration. His defeat cannot fail to weaken him as leader of his party and to lower his prestige with the country. So far as the President is concerned, the death of the Saboteur bill is an unhappy ending of a venture which was mistakenly conceived from the first, and upon which Mr. Harding never should have embarked.

Questions his motives in the affair. He has doubtless been sincerely of the conviction that the measure was sought to force through Congress was for the general welfare. But a political leader must know the material which he has to handle should be a good judge of public opinion. He ought to be aware of the feelings of his followers and of the feelings of the whole nation, and to be waiting for a chance to trip him up. But these and other elementary maxims of prudence Mr. Harding appears largely to have ignored. The President thought it sufficient to call upon party loyalty and a reliance to himself. Both failed him in the crisis. He now says that the country "will judge" of the Saboteur bill, but the Saboteur bill will also judge of his own course in committing himself to a project which tore his party in two and necessarily brought his leadership into at least temporary discredit.

MOUNT PAVLOF IN ERUPTION

(By The Associated Press)
ANCHORAGE, Alaska, Mar. 1.—Volcanic phenomena on the lower Aleutian peninsula where another great peak, Mount Pavlof, located opposite the Shumagin Islands and north of the Unimak Pass, blew off on December 30, may bring about conditions similar to those of 1909, in the opinion of residents here, when the crews of the revenue cutters plying along the Aleutian waters witnessed the creation and disappearance of new islands. Pavlof is located on a narrow neck of a leutian peninsula and any protruded eruption may result in separating the active peak from the remainder of the peninsula. So frequent have become the earth tremors, due to volcanic activity that residents of southwestern Alaska pay little heed to them unless something spectacular occurs. When Katmai blew up, carrying away its top measuring two miles in area, Kodiak and surrounding islands were submerged beneath a blanket of volcanic ash, which later developed into fertile soil. The next outbreak occurred a year ago when Mount Redoubt burst into mild activity after years of quiescence. One of the rare sights accompanying the eruption of Pavlof is the vivid reflection cast against northern mountain peaks as far north as McKinley, 20,000 feet elevation, and several hundred miles from the scene of action. During the most active period of Pavlof's explosion, the entire Aleutian range of towering peaks were radiant with a marvelous glow, changing into hideous colors of awe-inspiring splendor.

favorable factor. This is also true of the paper industry, which is thriving in this section and which is continually becoming a greater factor in its prosperity.

"I have said nothing about the agricultural outlook for this section because I shall treat it in detail next week, when discussing the purely agricultural states. Suffice to say, I found it improving and very much better than a year ago. The wiser farmers, however, are going more into dairying and the raising of market garden products. Beans, peas, cabbage, lettuce, tomatoes, potatoes, fruits, etc., are becoming the most profitable products. Dairying and poultry raising alone is bringing about $400,000,000 a year into this section. Because of the diversity of income and the increasing profits, I feel optimistic as to the farming possibilities within reasonable trucking distance of good sized cities. When the farmers of this section get a broader vision and realize that each prosper, only as the other prosper, then they all can prosper. The great enemy of the average farmer is not the natural elements without himself, but rather those human elements within himself. Creative nature has been good to the farmer, but human nature has been the farmer's greatest obstacle. When the farmer eliminates his jealousy, he will start on the highway of prosperity, but not until. The best antidote for jealousy is co-operation—yes a greater spirit of co-operation is what all Americans need today."

General business as reflected in the index of the Babson chart is 1 per cent., above normal.

ALLIES NEAR DUTCH BORDER GROW UNEASY

WASHINGTON, March 1.—A poll of assurances given to the Dutch Government by both the French and Belgian Governments that the rights of the Netherlands in the occupied territory would be respected, especially Rhine shipping rights, the Dutch are encountering great difficulties with imports from this territory, as well as with their shipping.

Seven Dutch boats, laden with basalt stone from quarries in the unoccupied part of the Rhineland and destined for Holland, have been held up by the French and Belgian customs authorities at Ruhrfort and subjected to an increased duty of 10 per cent. under the new tariff. The German Government has forbidden the Basalt Atkien Gesellschaft to comply with the tariff under penalty of punishment, and meantime another twenty boats are waiting to leave the unoccupied Rhine with cargoes of basalt.

Everywhere in Holland meetings of protests are being held against occupation of the Ruhr, for the Dutch see their own interests menaced in many ways, and consider that the increase in the seriousness of the economic situation is in part due to this. Endless collections are being made for the "Poor suffering Rhinelanders," and large sums of money have already been freely distributed in the Rhineland.

The Dutch are getting more and more nervous regarding the occupation of the Ruhr as the French and Belgians creep ever nearer the Dutch frontier in extending the occupied district. In some places the occupied territory is only thirty miles from the Dutch frontier.

The Netherlands, who have literally discarded militarism and reduced their army to such an extent that they would be unable to put up any sort of defense should they be attacked, feel uneasy with armed troops in the vicinity of their border and fear if Germans became desperate or resorted to arms that they might become involved.

Special anxiety is felt about the territory east of Limburg, which played such a role during the war. Limburg forms a tongue of land wedged between Germany and Belgium, and it was contended that German troops passed over Limburg in the first week of the war.

The Nieuwe Rotterdamse Courant notes that the French and Belgians occupy a triangular-shaped piece of territory sandwiched in between the Netherlands frontier and the Rhine and could be cut off from their base should the Germans ever resort to military action, or even if the Germans attacked their line of communication, in which case the French would be obliged to cross Dutch Limburg.

TRAIN HAZARD CLEARED.

(By The Associated Press.)
BELLEAIR HEIGHTS, Fla., Mar. 1.—Miss Glenna Collett, national women's golf champion, played an unique shot today when she played over a moving railroad train which afforded her another kind of a hazard. Miss Collett was at the tee just as the train came along. One of the players in the foursome asked her if she minded the train across her path. She replied almost instantly by hitting her tee shot straight and far down the fairway clearing the train by a wide margin.

DENY REPORTS OF INVASION

WASHINGTON, March 1.—Published reports of Lithuanian invasion of the Vilna neutral zone were denied today by the Lithuanian delegation which issued a statement saying that "Lithuanian government has not occupied its allotted part of the neutral zone, but Polish forces have in some instances crossed the neutral zone into Lithuanian territory."

On the night of February 27, the statement declared, Poles invaded the town of Mielai, 25 kilometers from the Lithuanian side from the neutral zone and the village of Lasklava.

BOSTON LANDLADY SAYS IT'S WICKED TO EXCLUDE CHILDREN FROM HOUSES

BOSTON, Mar. 1.—"Children Welcome." This notice, curious as it may seem, was inserted in a local newspaper recently by Mrs. Mary J. Borek, of No. 6 Lyndhurst street, Dorchester, who has a ten-room tenement to let. "I think it's wicked for people to own houses and prohibit families having little ones renting them," declared Mrs. Borek. "I have owned the house in question for a number of years. The present occupants have several children, the youngest three years of age, the eldest thirteen. The house has not been injured in any way."

SUIT IS FILED AGAINST SENATOR FROM ARKANSAS

(By The Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, March 1.—Damages amounting to $20,000 are sought in a suit filed today in the District of Columbia Supreme Court against Senator Caraway of Arkansas, by Harry A. Wallerstein, a veteran Bureau employee, for injuries alleged to have been sustained during a clash on a street car here several days ago. The encounter grew out of an argument on a street car.

Wallerstein charges that Senator Caraway, whom he described as "a large, powerful, muscular and physically vigorous man," many inches, many pounds heavier than himself, had without provocation "crucified and wantonly attacked him from the rear," hitting him with his fists and an umbrella.

After the altercation, which occurred Tuesday, Wallerstein said he had accidentally been thrown against the Senator by a lurch of the street car, and that, although he had apologized, the Senator had followed him from the car and had attacked him. At the time Senator Caraway said the man, with whom he had the tilt persisted in pecking him and had used offensive language.

SUZANNE LENGLEN TO PLAY IN TOURNAMENT

(By The Associated Press.)
MONTE CARLO, Mar. 1.—Suzanne Lenglen has definitely decided to play in the single and women's doubles in the tennis tournament opening at Montecarlo next Monday. She will be paired with Miss Elizabeth Ryan, American, in the doubles.

Miss Lenglen also intends playing in the single and mixed doubles, in the Nice tournament beginning March 12.

Mrs. Mollie Bjurstedt Mallory has also entered for both of these tournaments and an announcement meeting between the world's and American champions thus seems assured.

Never in the history of the world has the life of the family as a social unit been more in jeopardy. Social unrest, the independence afforded women by opening up almost every profession and every line of industry to them, equal rights with men, all of which are generally justified if not abused and women have the health and strength to carry out their inclinations in these matters. But alas, when a woman is almost at the point of breaking from her household cares and social life, to take on outside duties often means the breaking point, and homes are often neglected for lack of strength or some ailment develops because of overwork. Weak and ailing women will do well to remember that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made from roots and herbs benefit 98 out of every 100 women who try it, and let it help them—adv.

Babson Makes Annual Survey Of U. S. Situation

CHICAGO, Mar. 1.—Roger W. Babson, today released the third installment of his Annual Survey of Business Conditions in the United States and Canada. He here-in treats of what he calls the "Industrial West"—that great section immediately tributary to Chicago including Indiana, Illinois, Iowa, Missouri, Michigan and Wisconsin.

"These states were once wholly agricultural, but are rapidly changing into an industrial section. New factories are springing up every day. The younger generation are leaving farming for building, manufacturing and trade. Yet the total area under cultivation continues to hold its own."

"Great section of America," says Mr. Babson, "has its best barometer of business. For New England it is the number of spindles in operation—for Pennsylvania, the number of blast furnaces, for New York the total tonnage of the Erie Canal."

These since January 1st, 1932 are running well ahead of the corresponding weeks of 1932 and compare well with the total car loadings for the entire country. For the current month of 1932 the net car loadings were about 2,500,000. For the current month of 1932 the car loadings will show figures over 15 per cent. greater possibly final figures will show an increase of 500,000 cars. Moreover, of this increase only 60,000 were of an increase in coal loadings. In other words—if the car loadings of the current month are 2,500,000 only about 800,000 of these will be coal cars compared with over 700,000 coal cars loaded during the same period in 1932. This shows that the great increase is in building materials, live stock, merchandise, etc.—there being no appreciable change in grain car loadings. It is true that these figures apply to the entire country, but proportionally they also apply to this section of which Chicago is the center.

"The middle cities and states are recording increases of from 10 to 35 per cent. over a year ago. South Bend, Indiana, leads compared with last year, but Des Moines, Iowa; Peoria, Illinois and Kalamazoo, Michigan are closely catching up. Indianapolis and Terre Haute are not doing as well as they should do, owing to some unknown reason. The largest cities of this section—such as Chicago, St. Louis, Detroit and Milwaukee—are reporting about the same as last year. Some think this is due to the natural lag of the large cities, but others believe that the medium sized cities are due for a much larger proportionate growth. I am inclined to this belief. If so, the best opportunities during the next few years will be in the medium sized cities which have better available labor, lower rents and pleasant living conditions. The heavy increase in railroad freight rates and the development of good roads should also help the medium sized city."

"The automotive industry, which is largely located in this section continues to thrive. Many talk about this industry reaching a point of saturation. Of course, it will some day; but when that time comes it will require fully as many persons as are now engaged in the industry, to supply the cars and parts needed for replacements in order to keep the market saturated. It is true that some of the smaller companies will be forced out of business and all companies will tend to build lighter and cheaper cars, but the industry as a whole will continue prosperous for many years to come. This means much to Michigan, Illinois, and Indiana. 1932 will be a good automobile year."

"This section tributary to Chicago is also reaping the benefit of the residential building boom now in the out country. I have already referred to the cause of this boom—namely, the exodus of people from the cities to suburbs and the country due to the convenience of the automobile. The first industries to benefit from the building boom were the cement and brick people, then the lumber and steel interests began to prosper. Now the copper, paints, and other industries are picking up. This sequence is invariably true—altogether when the boom culminates and the turn downward comes, the cement and brick people will be the first to feel the decline and the new roads in process of construction are also temporarily helping this section. Altho I fear that some of the sections will not feel so prosperous when the time comes to pay off the road bonds which they are now so freely issuing."

"The last great industry to benefit from a building boom is the furniture industry. After a house is built, new furniture is always purchased, even though the family moves from some other house. Now nearly four-fifths of the furniture was manufactured in great activity for this industry during 1932. There is little to be even a furniture shortage. Those who contemplate buying new furniture during 1933 should make their purchases at once. The industry is not one that can easily expand, it also is very dependent upon transportation, which is liable to congestion throughout the year. Remember that there are fewer miles of railroad in our country today than there were ten years ago. Terminals are becoming more congested every year and industries, which like furniture—are so very dependent upon the railroads, should count upon this un-

Yale Will Begin the Practice of Baseball This Week

Team Going To Macon For Pre-Season Tryout

BY WALTER CAMP
(Copyright, 1933, By The Bee)

NEW YORK, March 2.—This week the work of the Yale baseball team begins under the new advisory committee, consisting of Judge Bowers, Malcolm Aldrich, Merritt, Ryle, Haddell, Eddy and Winslow, with Tomlinson as coach and Bush as captain. Bush has been closely allied in the preliminary plans.

Of these men, Bowers was a winning pitcher for three years. He graduated in 1902. The others are pretty well known among Yale men and the material is very promising. Of course, the new men will feel the loss of "Big" Aldrich very much and Chittenden proved himself a most useful pitcher. All the rest of the team are new to the team.

South of the 24th are training camp at Macon Ga. where they play seven games, including Georgia and Alabama Tech. Some of their promise can be gathered from the following:

The football coaches of the olden times must have owned the eyes when they heard the name of Bush. He has made a great name for himself at Yale and his teams have always shown a remarkably advanced football.

Columbia will have a difficult job in the matter of a coach, and it is in the matter of a coach who has the matter under consideration. There is an opportunity for some remarkable work, but conditions are not the same as in the past. The new men are in many of the old ones, as O'Neill and other coaches have discovered. It is a main job to put Columbia where she belongs on the football map, and while it might not be accomplished in a season, it still is well within the realm of possibility.

Fears New Woman May Lose Laurels

LONDON, Mar. 1.—"We stand halfway toward the new conception of woman, and I am not certain whether we are going forward," Lady Rhonda has said.

Lady Rhonda has said that the new woman is coming, and she is not sure whether she is going forward or backward. She has said that the new woman is coming, and she is not sure whether she is going forward or backward. She has said that the new woman is coming, and she is not sure whether she is going forward or backward.

"The war helped us to get out of the old state of affairs," Lady Rhonda declared.

Since the war we have been slipping back again, and the idea that woman should be ornamental and not useful has been creeping up again. It is not possible that instead of going forward womanhood may even have come back to the conditions of 50 years ago."

Lady Rhonda has no sympathy for those who would criticize modern "flapperdom." There have always been subjects to criticism, she says.

"The young women of today are no worse than the grandmothers," the Viscountess said.

Girls Ever The Same.

"They don't differ one iota. There is one generalization which throughout the ages does not change—the generalization about the modern young women of the period were dying their hair and painting their faces. This critic wrote: 'She dresses to please herself and love all care if she displeases everybody else.' Many of the critics of today are merely re-echoing the words of the critics of a half century ago."

More Education.

"There are two main differences between the woman of today and her sister of 50 years ago. Today the education of a young woman does not compare quite so unfavorably with the education of her brother. In the second place, the woman of today is allowed to some extent only, to develop and not to suppress her faculties and individuality."

Fifty years ago it was assumed that woman was not meant to be useful. She was supposed to be ornamental and, above all things, attractive.

"We are slipping back to that conception of woman as an ornament. We must watch lest we lose our new freedom."

Cock Fighting In Maryland Calls Down La w Threats

BY JOHN ARCHER CARTER
HAGERSTOWN, Md., March 1.—Like influenza and the cat, cock fighting has come here. A pastime for the sport, born in ancient Greece and transmitted through generations, again stirs the east and south.

Hagerstown has its quota of fan enthusiasts to create for the thrill of the pit, that threats from the Baltimore Society for the prevention of cruelty to animals do not dissuade them from perfecting plans to a mammoth main here one night this week. The championship of West Virginia, Maryland and Pennsylvania will be decided, the fans assert.

"We'll take a chance," they declare. A few days ago the championship of four states was determined here and we were not bothered anyhow, the risk involved quickens the interest.

That effort will be made to prevent it as certain as a pocket gaff. Mrs. Roger Whipple, president of a Baltimore's S. C. A., is reported to have assembled much data on the spread of the sport and to be ready to present her acts to District Judge, State's Attorney of Washington county. A grand jury probe may follow such action.

Twice within the past week have such threats been carried out in the Maryland-Virginia area. At Norfolk, Va., last Friday police arrested 75 alleged cockfight sportsmen. At Black River, in Baltimore, Sunday morning, 200 others gathered to hear the beateathered despot's heels click on Maryland's shore were routed by the police. But Hagerstown proceeds with her plans.

The sport is so old Tut-anh-Amen may have enjoyed it in the shade of the pyramids. The ancient Greeks are credited with originating it. While Plato was lecturing on brotherly love and Socrates was cultivating his appetite for Hamlet's clatter of birds of a feather flocking closely together, could be heard from the black altars of the Acropolis, Rome's armies, when not crossing the Rubicon, let their Dies be cast on one cock or another in the bloody ring. The Coliseum had worthy competition here the cock-pit. England introduced the game to her children in the twelfth century, to keep them from eating in the marble alleys. It won recognition from the courtiers of Edward the III and gained so in popularity that in 1449 passed well-timed laws and stopped it.

In the meantime, of course America's urged to be up to date had subdued the pastime across the sea.

In Revolutionary War days Virginia and Kentucky birds were winning world-wide fame. Patriotic planters bred chickens for the pit rather than for the pie. The entire south fell prey to the epidemic. After the war between the states the sport, like the K. K. K., of later date spread to the east and north. Birds of perfect size and pluck were bred in New England. Then suddenly the curtains rang down. Prohibitive laws were passed. The super-valiant New England birds were seized by the S. P. C. A. and served in soup like any common brood of the hen house.

Now after fifty years of quiet, America re-embraces the old delight. Darkies with twitching crocus sacks under their arms, skip furtively along the bayous. Game chickens flutter through the blue grass and neck and buzz beneath the Rhododendron. And in the hills and tideswater across farther north the clamorous crowing of tomorrow's champion drowns out the bustle of industry and the roar of the fog horn.

Only at Norfolk and Black River have cock fights of recent date come to grief. In the Virginia city it was not a major contest, but possibly one hundred men gathered about the pit on the third floor of a dilapidated building. When police arrived they attempted to escape by sliding down the elevator shaft of dodging out the windows but they had violated the law they had violated the gamblers than the men, fought on.

The Black River disaster of last Sunday morning, however, was so great as to be catastrophic and all because of a cock fight. Plucked in error, from the Hot-Pot of London. The main was to decide the Maryland-Virginia championship. A purse of $5,000 had been posted. The fight had progressed excitedly. Fourteen boys had been held from our spectators.

The score was eight for Virginia, six for Maryland. In the midst of the fifteenth clash, the pebbles rooster aforementioned cock-a-doodled again into a Waterloo for the spectators.

He had already shown the white feathers sprouting above a yellow streak. Set race-to-race with an enemy he had clucked for quarter. His owner had dumped him into a sack and the sack apparently into obscurity. But a great light then manifested dawned upon him in the false dawn: he crowed. Canticle in his vociferous glory was a plump by comparison. He asked for play for the working man and converted through an opera.

Thus tipped off the police walked in, yet Hagerstown is undismayed. She'll have her tri-state contest before the end of this week, according to the fans. For police may come and police may go, but cock fighting, as Demosthenes is understood to have predicted, will go on for ever.

PRINCE SLIPS INTO YANKEE SLANG IN TALK

(By The Associated Press)

LONDON, Mar. 1.—The Prince of Wales slipped into "Yankee slang" tonight to the great pleasure of three hundred American former college students at the dinner of the American University Union. Speaking of the double benefits of a university education and overseas experiences, he said:

"Perhaps I have been more lucky than most of you. I think perhaps I can put one over on many of you by asking how many of you have visited your territories of Honolulu and the Philippines as I have."

ambassador Harvey paid tribute to him as "the white prince."

Lady Astor said:

"The Prince of Wales is one of the best Americans I have ever met. He knows when to talk what we mean. There is no greater link between England and American than His Royal Highness in fact, no greater link between all countries."

Visitors In Paris Is Enmeshed In Much Red Tape

PARIS, Mar. 1.—France is a country of blank forms, permits, identification papers and "red tape."

Would you remain more than two weeks in the country? It is obligatory that you go within ten days to the prefecture of the police and obtain a permit to stay.

At the same time you might apply for a certificate of identity for that there is required only a passport, five small photographs and certificate of domicile, signed by the concierge of the house in which you live and stamped by the police commissaire of the arrondissement in which the house is located.

Some days later you may humbly apply for the card and receive it for the sum of ten francs.

Would you change your home in the city? Proceed again to the prefecture of the police and have your address changed on their records.

Would you engage in a certain line of business in France? Set about at once to get a permit.

Would you practice a profession? You must first obtain a license from the proper authorities.

And what happens if you fail to make the necessary applications, obtain the necessary permits and keep in sufficient close touch with the police?

Intermittently the newspapers report police raids on fashionable restaurants, Montmartre pleasure spots and other rendezvous of foreigners in the city. Half a hundred persons, perhaps, who are unable to produce the necessary papers, are packed into patrol wagons, taken to the police station and locked up. Next day they appear before a justice of the peace.

CLARKE OF KLAN INDICTED BY A FEDERAL JURY

(By The Associated Press)

ATLANTA, Ga., Mar. 1.—"It is simply another effort to attempt to discredit me and through discrediting me damage the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan," said Edward Young Clarke, former acting Imperial Wizard of the Klan, when told this afternoon of his reported indictment in Houston, Texas.

Mrs. Clarke this afternoon issued a statement as follows:

"I have not yet received any detailed information in regard to the matter but I am not guilty of the charge supposed to have been made against me and upon which the indictment is reported to have been obtained."

"It is simply another effort to attempt to discredit me and through discrediting me damage the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan."

"I have won every case that has gone to trial which has been brought against me, and I am sure that if indictment has been obtained as indicated that when the matter goes to trial I will be fully and entirely vindicated."

Schneider Led a Gay Life

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Mar. 1.—The process of unfolding the mystery surrounding the slaying of Frederick Schneider, wealthy contractor, led the authorities today into details of the gay life he led at his Bronx apartment and his palatial camp at Glen Cairn in the Adirondacks, and revealed that he counted many beautiful women among his friends.

In the meantime, Mrs. Annie Buzze, the woman with whom he lived for seven years, and who was held as a material witness, instituted habeas corpus proceedings for her release from jail. The process was held in Bronx county court and decision reserved until tomorrow.

District Attorney Glennon admitted that evidence on which Mrs. Buzze was held was purely circumstantial.

Mrs. Dorothy Hines, a stenographer and friend of Schneider, told the district attorney she nearly always attended functions at Schneider's apartment here and the house parties he gave at Glen Cairn. Mrs. Buzze was at those parties, but never displayed jealousy that the girl observed.

Mrs. Schneider, widow of the contractor, was closeted with the district attorney for two hours today. He sent her information was important. Investigators are centering their efforts in tracing the pistol used in the slaying and in checking up the activities of Schneider for several hours before he was killed.

SARAZEN IS DEFEATED.

(By The Associated Press)

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., Mar. 1.—Jack Hutchison, former British open champion, defeated Gene Sarazen, national open champion, in a 18 hole exhibition match at the West Palm Beach Country Club this afternoon. Hutchison turned in a score of 75 and Sarazen 86.

Hutchison played consistently throughout the match and made the second hole in his par 35, sinking two long putts for birdies. Sarazen was erratic on the greens and was 3 down at the end of the match.

BIG LEAGUERS TOO STRONG AND JAPS FAIL TO PROFIT

BY WAITE HOYT
Pitcher for New York Americans and World Series Hero

The team of the Japs did not tend to benefit the play of the Japs as much as it was hoped.

The fact that the big leaguers so far outclassed the best team in Japan was the cause. There was a lack of keen competition in all the games with the exception of the one we lost.

Usually our team was out in front from the opening inning. This very naturally led to the pulling of the Japs inside stuff, the delayed steal, the squeeze, the steal and other bits of recognized points of strategy. The Japs would profit much better in a baseball way, for the present at least, by a visit from our leading college teams, provided such teams had big league players as coaches, who could impart the knowledge to the Japs not only by instruction but by actual happenings in a game.

The Japs learn very quickly. They seem to grasp a thing much more quickly if a play involving such a situation comes up in the game, rather than by holding a meeting with the players and having someone fully explain the play by talk and diagrams.

Let the Jap observe closely a play that actually happens, and the next day he will be attempting the same thing.

The Jap team would make it mighty interesting for a good minor league or strong college team. Such a team would be forced to play real baseball to beat them. As a result, the Japs would benefit by a style of play that would bring out the possibilities of baseball.

The Japs pitching was rather soft for our team. Our aggregation was a hard-hitting club. Assuming a commanding lead in the opening inning, our club would keep slugging away. Like the American fans, the Japs like to see the ball travel. In that respect we certainly gave them a run for their money.

On the whole the Jap players are rather weak on the fundamentals of the game.

When a batsman reaches first base in safety, the big idea with the Jap player is to get him to second, from where he can score on a base hit.

The Japs don't seem to give a thought to the score or the inning when using such a style of play. It is not uncommon for them to hunt with one out.

In some games we played I have seen them hunt in the last inning when our team was leading by 10 or more runs.

Our team used the hit-and-run play a great deal. As a result, that style of getting runs in bunches will probably be given a through workout now that we have left the country.

A better idea of the fundamentals, as gleaned from actual competition in closely played games, is what the Jap players need most.

Indoor Polo Is Trying Sport On Outdoor Teams

BY LAWRENCE PERRY
(Copyright, 1933, By The Bee)

NEW YORK, March 2.—Quite the most interesting point about the games of indoor polo which the British team is playing in preparation for the International Championships later this month is the trouble these crack outdoor players have been having in adapting themselves to the indoor game. By the time they get into action for the Townsend Cup they undoubtedly will have accommodated their game to the congested area of an armory, to the possibility of storms off the field, to the softer thing and divergence from the outdoor game induced by the larger and softer ball.

As reported by the press between indoor and outdoor polo, a sturdy horse in a field is a team of Britons could meet in a team that it has played indoor to date and wipe out a regulation outdoor polo field with them. It is not the certain that after a regulation outdoor polo field with them. It is not the certain that after a regulation outdoor polo field with them. It is not the certain that after a regulation outdoor polo field with them.

Indoor Polo, however, has come to stay. It is growing by leaps and bounds all over the country. Wherever there is a mark of an armory facilities for play exists and advantage is being taken of this fact.

CRICQUI ON WAY FOR HIS BOUT DATED JUNE 2ND.

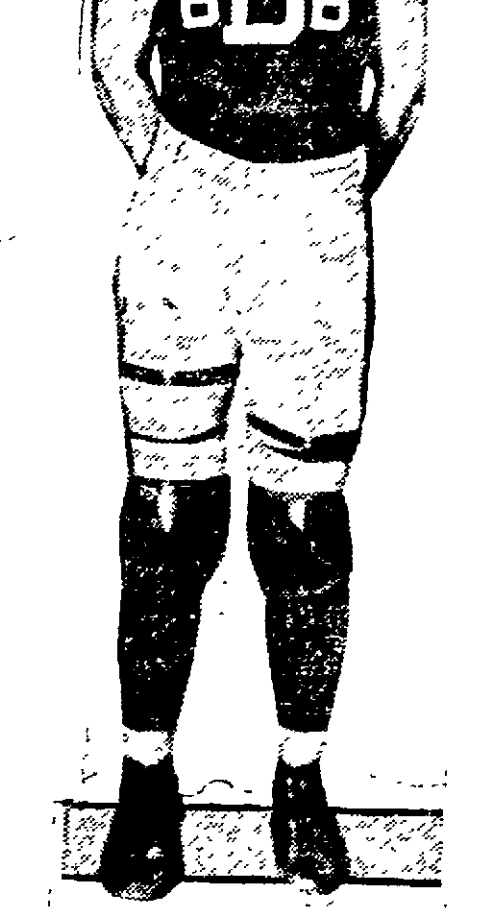

(By The Associated Press.)
PARIS, Mar. 1.—Eugene Cricqui, European featherweight champion, has engaged passage on the steamship Paris for March 17, when he will sail with his manager Budeline for his Memorial Day bout with Johnny Kilbane for the world's championship.

His training partner Roush, who has challenged Charles Ledoux for the European bantamweight championship, will follow three weeks later, giving Cricqui a chance to look around before he begins the arduous work of training.

BE HELD JUNE 2.
NEW YORK, Mar. 1.—The world's featherweight title bout between Eugene Cricqui and Johnny Kilbane will be held at the Polo Grounds on June 2 instead of Memorial Day, as originally scheduled, it was announced today by Tom O'Rourke, promoter of the contest.

The change was necessitated, he said, by the fact that the New York Giants have a double-header scheduled on their home grounds for the holiday.

WILLARD'S TOUR STOPPED.
(By The Associated Press.)
ST. LOUIS, Mar. 1.—Ita Archer, Jess Willard's manager, today ordered the exhibition tour of the former pugilist champion discontinued after the exhibition at Kansas City, March 7. This announcement was made here this afternoon by William McCarny, Willard's advance man, following a long distance telephone conversation with Archer who is in New York. McCarny stated the action was taken on orders from Tex Rickard, boxing promoter.

Virginia Tech Beaten At Cage Game Tourney

(By The Associated Press.)
ATLANTA, Ga., Mar. 1.—Georgia Tech avenged its defeat in basketball at the University of Georgia two years ago by its own win over the "Bull-Dogs." It ancient rival 27 to 22 in a fast game of the Southern Intercollegiate Basketball Tournament here tonight.

Tech entered the game as a favorite, but the Georgia five fought hard and never gave up until the final whistle. Both teams played brilliant ball all during the game. Tech's offense and defense were too much for Georgia during the first period and the University crew was only able to register seven points to sixteen for the "Yellow Jackets."

An overflowing crowd witnessed the contest. The two schools severed athletic relations in 1919.

The powerful Mississippi Aggies quintet earned the right to play in the semi-final tomorrow by its victory over the University of Mississippi here tonight. The final score was 33 to 25. The Aggies also entered the game as favorites and jumped into the lead at the start. Every member of the quintet played stellar ball.

Locked tooth and claw like a couple of wildcats, the quintets of Mercer University of Macon, Georgia, and the University of Alabama went to the mat here, late today in the third round of the Southern Intercollegiate Basketball Tournament and the Macon Baptists came out on top 28 to 23. Mercer has a great team in George Harmon, sensational running guard.

Harmon started off slow and at the end of the first period Alabama was leading 14 to 11. "Slim" Carter, for Alabama, baffled the Baptists during the initial period. He was absent from the lineup at the beginning of the second half and the "Hoosiers" came back full of confidence. Field goals by Harmon, Smith and Wilkes tied the score and another from the hands of Lanky "Red" Simmons tipped in off the jump sent the Macon outfit into the lead and from then they were never headed.

It was Harmon and Harmon and still more Harmon from all quarters of the court during the last period, dribbling and swishing the ball through the iron hoops as five Alabamians attempted to catch up with him. He made the spectators go wild in his mighty fury to gain back the foul penalties imposed on his teammates during the first half which were responsible for Alabama obtaining the lead. Smith, Simmons and Wilkes assisted the little fellow in bringing about the Alabamians' downfall.

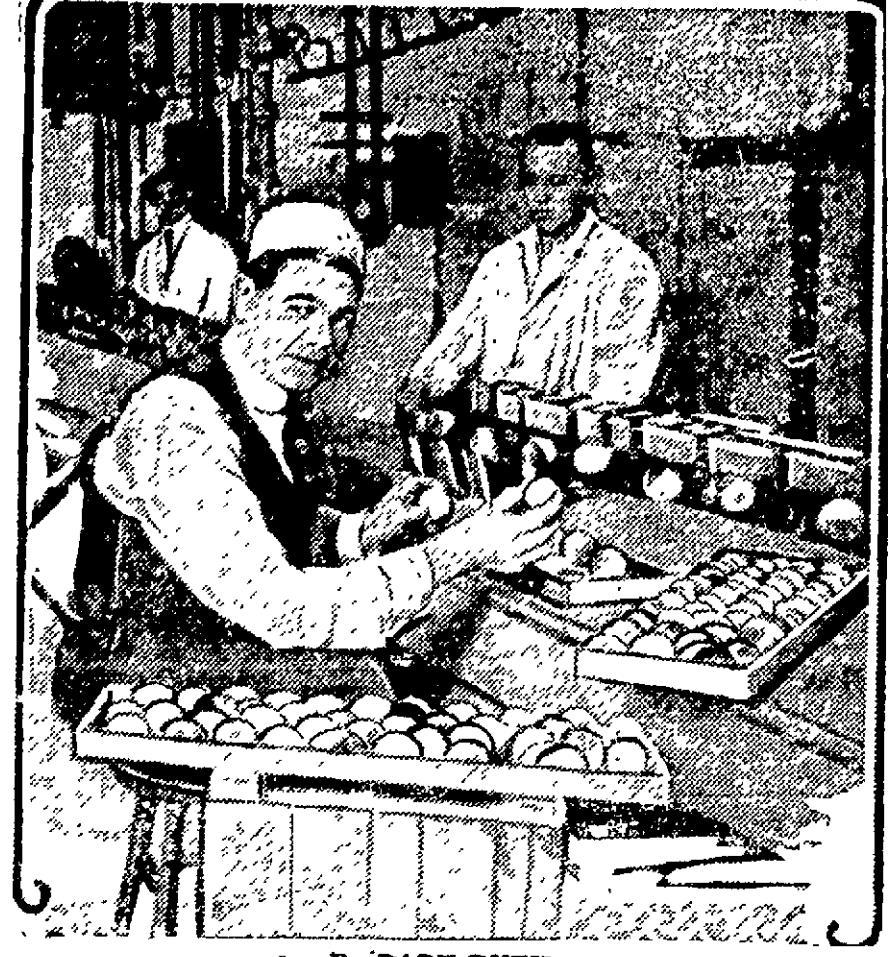

Stabler for Alabama, tossed in eleven foul goals during the contest and almost placed himself solid for the honors of the highest point scorer during the tournament. Carter made three beautiful field goals.

The Virginia Polytechnic Institute team is early tonight traveling homeward with the scalp of the Vanderbilt University in its belt, and a mighty sting of defeat in other parts. The University of Chattanooga won over the Virginia this afternoon, 38 to 23. It was too much Red for V P I to swallow and the Chattanooga had little trouble in gaining its victory.

Chattanooga's quintet displayed a combination of speed and accuracy in its game against Virginia. Captain Redd for the Tennesseans appears to have the ability to toss the ball into the basket from any angle. Eight field goals and six foul goals were all in the day's work for the "Noogans skipper" while his teammate, Barnes, tallied seven field goals.

Rhodes kept down the Noogans lead with all-around playing and

Ruth Set For New Record After Winter at His Office and Farm

By BABE RUTH
ALMOST anything a man makes money at becomes a business. Therefore some of my friends who have kidded me about going out of my line in heading an ice cream company are wrong. Baseball is as much a business as anything. Only it isn't played with books, telephones and desks.

But I have found that each requires much the same thing in the matter of physical and mental fitness. A day at my desk in my New York office takes quite as much out of me as a heated battle at the Polo Grounds.

How to spend the off-season best is a problem that confronts all ball players. But when I decided to go into business in New York this winter I had no idea that the requirements of office life were so exacting. Yet it has been a good thing for me and has aided in putting me in the best condition I have ever been in early season. I hope that means I shall break my record of 1921. I always have thought I could better that mark.

I got away to a poor start last season but between my farm and my New York business I am sure there will be another story to tell this year.

If this comes true I shall attribute some of the success to the clear, quick mind that is developed by business contact and regular office hours.

With three field and six foul goals to his credit, Virginia was not up to standard and in no way appeared like the team which eliminated Vanderbilt yesterday.

HAWAII MAY STUDY RACES OF PACIFIC

HONOLULU, Mar. 1.—An appeal to the Pan-Pacific Union to sponsor a chair at the University of Hawaii for the study of the psychology of all Pacific races, in order to determine scientifically the mental differences of the various peoples of the Pacific, was made at a recent meeting of the Union here by Dr. Stanley Porteus, of the university faculty. The Union has taken the matter under advisement and probably will lend its support to the proposal. Dr. Porteus, in his appeal to the Union, pointed out that Hawaii, because of the many admixtures of Pacific races here would be the ideal place in which to conduct such a study.

FUND TO MAKE UP DIFFERENCE

(By The Associated Press.)
CINCINNATI, Mar. 1.—A fund to make up the difference in salary demanded by Ed Roush, outfielder of the Reds and that offered by the Cincinnati Baseball Club was suggested today by H. D. Kincaid, a merchant, when he said he would put up $100 and requested 100 other men to do the same.

Roush has not signed with the Reds to date because of a salary difference. No intimation as to the difference in the club's offer and that asked by Roush has been made, although it was said that his outfielder had received a liberal increase over last year's salary. Roush held out until the middle of last season because of a salary dispute, before he signed up.

Boc Hoskins, veteran trainer of the Reds, left today for Orlando, Fla., to get everything in readiness for the coming of the vanguard of the Reds who will leave here Saturday.

Frankie Genaro Defeats Villa

(By The Associated Press.)
NEW YORK, Mar. 1.—Frankie Genaro, New York, won the American flyweight championship tonight from Pancho Villa of Manila, Philippine Islands, in a sensational 15 round bout at Madison Square Garden. Genaro received the decision of the judges.

The last few rounds were furiously fought and the crowd that filled the historic garden to capacity surged around the ring after the decision was announced. Bluecoats had to clear a way for the boxers. Villa was booed by Genaro's admirers in the gallery as he started for his dressing room.

Round one: Genaro was first to land, a right to the jaw. Several times the New Yorker sprang in like a terror, rushing the champion to the ropes and sinking his left in the ribs. They exchanged left swings to the head. Both men were cautious and Genaro took whatever there was.

Round two: They clinched. Genaro swung wildly several times and then ducked away from the champion's lead. Villa was the aggressor in several body exchanges which were even and then bounded off the ropes when Genaro shot a left swing to the jaw.

Round three: Villa sprang away when Genaro leaped for him. Genaro sunk his left in the Filipino's stomach after a body exchange. Villa was in Genaro's corner.

Round four: Villa landed left jabs to stomach and head and catching Genaro's head, he swung his right into his kidneys. The challenge was warned for butting his head on Villa's chin. Genaro rushed Villa across the ring and the champion toppled outside the ropes. The challenger sent the champion back on his heels with a left to the head. Villa replied with a left that plunged into Genaro's stomach.

Round five: Both took hard lefts to the head and clinched. Genaro rushed to the champion's corner with a repeating left to head and body. The champion landed a fusillade on Genaro's torso. Villa shot his left to the challenger's jaw. Both were missing frequently.

Round six: Villa caught Genaro in a clinch and pumped both fists into the challenger's ribs. The Filipino had the best of several other exchanges. Genaro rocked him with a left to the jaw but Villa came back with a two isted attack to the head and body. Villa was booed for a back handed "rabbit" punch.

Round seven: So far the bout was slower than anticipated and about even. Genaro got two stiff lefts to the body and one to the head before Villa could return his right to the head. Villa put his left to the body and jaw. Villa was using the "rabbit" punch, until the back of Genaro's neck was red. Both men posed a great deal.

Round eight: Villa took the lead. He hooked his left to Genaro's head and in the clinch landed effectively to the body. After rushing the challenger to the ropes the Filipino slowed down and missed several long swings. Genaro caught Villa's jaw with a downward left and they shot his left flush to the jaw, but the champion did not stagger. They were dancing at the bell.

Round ten: Again the champion took command, shooting his left to the jaw and the right to the ribs, surging in ferociously. Villa drew blood from the flesh under the challenger's left eye but Genaro caught him with a wild left. Villa staggered Genaro with a left to the jaw as the round ended.

Round eleven: They sprang at each other like tigers and Villa lifted Genaro off his feet with a left to the jaw. The champion began a slashing two handed attack and Genaro began to clinch. They exchanged swings to the jaw.

Round twelve: After a body exchange Villa rocked Genaro with a right to the jaw the challenger replying with a left to the jaw that sent Villa reeling to the ropes. Both men were at it hammer and tongs rocking each other's head with uppercuts and swings. Villa landed half a dozen lefts to the jaw in the last half of the round.

Round thirteen: Again they jolted each other with lefts to the jaw. Twice Villa rushed Genaro to the ropes and twice Genaro escaped. They exchanged furiously, each digging into the other's body. Villa caught Genaro off his feet and plunged his left to the stomach.

Round fourteen: They renewed furious mixing and then quieted down. Several times Villa's left caught Genaro's flush on the jaw and the challenger swung wildly. Villa missed an uppercut.

Round fifteen: They sprang at each other and when they mixed dug like trip hammers into each other's ribs. Genaro staggered Villa with a right to the jaw and after a respite repeated, Genaro rushed. They clinched. Villa slashed his right to the jaw and missed an uppercut. Villa rocked Genaro with a right to the jaw. They paced slowly and the bell found them mixing.

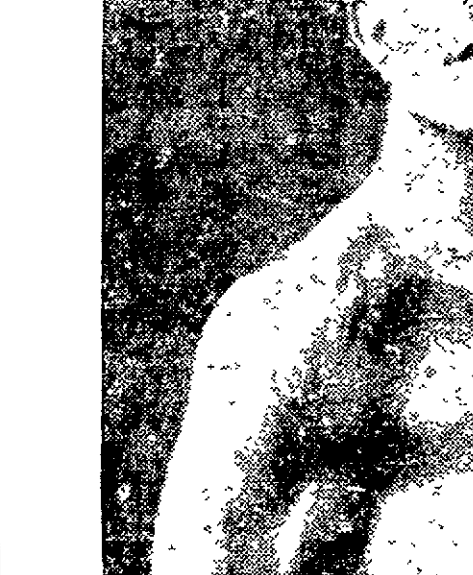

MASSACHUSETTS REPORTS LABOR SUPPLY SHORTAGE

BOSTON, Mar. 1.—There is a shortage in labor in this State, according to the statistics of the Massachusetts Association of Industries, which is urging a revision of the immigration laws to meet the dearth of labor.

Factories of the State are clamoring for unskilled laborers and for trained workers. The employment agencies of the State are unable to supply the demand. Records of the Association of Industries show a 30 per cent shortage.

Domestic help is equally scarce, according to C. Harry Dunderdale, director of the State Public Employment Agency.

MONTICELLO ASSOCIATION IS ORGANIZED

(By The Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, Mar. 1.—The National Monticello Association, a newly formed organization composed of prominent Washington women, expects within the next few days to purchase the Monticello Estate at Charlottesville, Va., the old home of Thomas Jefferson.

In making this announcement today, Mrs. Marietta Minnerbrook Andrews, president of the association, said it was planned to make the historic estate a national shrine, second only to Mount Vernon.

The property has been for sale for more than a year, the owner being former Representative Jefferson M. Levy, of New York, who is said to have held the estate at $500,000.

In a telegram to Mrs. Rose Gouverneur Hoos, Secretary of the association, Mr. Levy today said: "Your patriot's plans to purchase Monticello for a national memorial similar to Mount Vernon meets with my sympathetic approval."

Other officers of the association announced today are Mrs. Stephen B. Pitkin, wife of the late West Virginia Senator, vice president and Alfred Penhroke Thom, treasurer. Among the sponsors of the association who have already accepted are Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, wife of ex-President Wilson and Mrs. Cary T. Grayson, wife of Rear Admiral Grayson, aide to Mr. Wilson while President.

W. H. Hillyer, attorney, represents Mr. Levy.

RETAIL SALES ARE

15 PER CENT. HEAVIER

BY PAUL C. HEDRICK

SEATTLE, Mar. 1.—Retail sales in the majority of the department stores

throughout the Pacific northwest were about 16 per cent. heavier in February than in the corresponding month of 1922. Cement mills in the foothills of the Cascades, lumber mills and logging camps are getting back rapidly to normal production.

Evidence that there is ample capital in this section of the country for investment was shown today when $1-000,000 in cash was subscribed by

Washington, Oregon and Idaho lumber manufacturers, merchants and bankers for the purpose of forming a fire insurance company along mutual lines which is to have a capital and surplus of $2,000,000.

Says Russians Suffer Untold Famine Misery

MANCHESTER, Eng., Mar. 1.—A vivid story of unparalleled suffering in the Russian famine is told by Miss N. E. Walker, secretary, Manchester Russian Famine Relief Fund, who has just returned after a three months' tour of the famine regions. "Compared with some places," she says, "there is no famine in Moscow, although tea there is $30 a pound; sugar $50 a pound; boots $30 a pair; woolen stockings $5 a pair; tablets of cheap soap shillings each; black bread 9 pence a pound, and wages average no more than from 3 pence a day for unskilled artisans to 16 pence for skilled men.

"Life in Moscow is comparatively normal, but the streets are lined with beggars and unemployed. Jews Own Cars. "There are many motor cars, too, but these belong to the Jews, who take advantage of the change of policy permitting private enterprise, have opened plenty of shops. Indeed, practically all the shops in Moscow are open now. So are the theatres and concert halls. There are still free buses, but recently a charge was introduced for the better-class seats. In other seats it is now common for government officials to find themselves next to charwomen and others of the plebeian classes.

"On one occasion Trotsky occupied the next box to mine at a theatre. He is not thought so much of as Lenin, who never stirs from the Kremlin—the city within the city, the home of all the government officials.

"A doctor told me that Lenin is three parts paralyzed and that another stroke is expected any day. It seems as though Lenin is doomed to die very shortly.

"The fact that he is, too, a thoroughbred Russian, unlike Trotsky and other alien leaders, secures him a place in popular esteem denied them. Popular Cannibalism. "I came across absolute proof that cannibalism had been indulged in. Several little children told me quite frankly that they like human flesh much better than animal flesh. These were not their words, of course, but it is the sense of what they said to me.

RESOLUTION TO REDUCE QUOTA OF IMMIGRATION

WASHINGTON, Mar. 1.—A resolution which would reduce to two per cent, the quota of immigration from Europe, based on the number of each nationality in the United States under the census of 1910 was introduced today by Chairman Johnson of the House Immigration Committee. The present law provides for a three per cent, quota under the same census. The measure also would admit immediate relatives of persons who had become citizens or declared their intention of doing so.

CHICAGO CLAIMS MOST INDUSTRIOUS STUDENTS

CHICAGO, Mar. 1.—Chicago is laying claim to the most industrious high school students in the United States. The students have become so industrious that the Chicago Board of Education has issued an order that hereafter typewriters, adding machines and other equipment at schools must not be removed from the buildings.

The students were taking away so many of the machines they are leaving nothing with which to work at school. Of course, the machines were taken home for "night work."

Both in the Senate and the House he had observed this procedure, and finally he asked his father: "Papa, why does the minister come in every day and pray for Congress?" "You've got it all wrong, son," replied his father. "The minister comes in every day, looks over Congress and then prays for the country."

Another Chapter In Weaver Clash

WASHINGTON, Mar. 1.—Another chapter in the clash between Dr. W. P. Weaver, of Roanoke, and the State Veterinarian, Dr. Fernyough, over whether two of Senator Carter Glass' cows had tuberculosis, was written today when the Bureau of Animal Industry, U. S. Agriculture Department, restored Dr. Weaver to the Federal accredited lists of veterinarians permitted to test animals for interstate shipment.
It will be recalled that somewhat over a year ago an official of Dr. Fernyough's bureau declared that two animals in Senator Glass' herd of cattle had tuberculosis, that Senator Glass had refused to test them; that Dr. Weaver found they were not infected; that shortly afterward Dr. Fernyough removed Dr. Weaver from the list of veterinarians permitted to test cattle for interstate shipment.
Senator Swanson and Representative James P. Woods of Roanoke, recently took up the fight for Dr. Weaver at the urging of officials of the Norfolk & Western Railroad and other clients of Dr. Weaver's.
It seems that the charges upon which the action was taken, Dr. Weaver's failure to send a certified copy of a certain test to the State Veterinarian's office at Richmond and also a failure personally to affix ear tags to each head of cattle in a carload interstate shipment.
Senator Swanson and Congressman Woods explained to the Agriculture Department officials that Dr. Weaver had not only sent the certificate because of instructions from his attorney and further because he felt that the State Veterinarian was intensely hostile to him, but was further shown that the veterinarian personally to ear tag seven animals in a carload lost arose out of the fact that Dr. Weaver's tags gave out, whereupon he accepted an offer from the veterinarian to accept his tags to Roanoke and get the seven tags. Dr. Weaver gave the seven tags to his attorney and gave the seven tags to attaching them. There was never any question of the fact that the animals were all properly tested and found free of infection or that the proper certificate was attached to the bill of lading.
Weaver frankly admitted the technical violation of regulations, and agreed to adhere strictly to such details hereafter. After listening to Dr. Weaver's explanation and listening to the presentation of the matter by Senator Swanson and Representative Woods, Dr. Mohler, chief of the Bureau of Animal Industry agreed to recommend the restoration of Dr. Weaver's name to the accredited list, subject to approval of Secretary Wallace. This approval was given and Dr. Weaver was notified that his name is restored to the accredited list effective March 1st.
No authority was shown, outside the State Veterinarian's bureau, Dr. Weaver's friends claim, has ever asserted there was the slightest professional impropriety in Dr. Weaver's action, but on the contrary some of the highest authorities in such matters in the United States, both Federal and State, have attested the professional propriety of Dr. Weaver's course.

SOME HERO MAY UNSCRAMBLE MAP TARHEEL STATE

RALEIGH, N. C., Mar. 1.—"We live in an age of standardization, as the commencement orators who are about to follow have been hailing the present rearing legislative orators are wont to say, an era of uniformity, an epoch of regulation, a period of rectification by statute, and so on, and while it is all being done, so suddenly and so thoughtlessly, to the glaring discrepancies and inharmonies and in inconsistencies of the map of North Carolina.
It happened too long ago, of course, to blame anybody about it, but we are now the country seat of Caldwell county and not of Jones county? Why is Graham the county seat of Alamance county and not Graham county? Why is Greensboro the county seat of Guilford and not Greensboro county? Why is Beaufort the county seat of Carteret and not Beaufort county?
Moreover, why is Rockingham the county seat of Richmond and not Rockingham county? Why is Vanceville the county seat of Caswell and not Vance county? Why is Columbia the county seat of Yreall and not Columbus county? Why is Pittsboro the county seat of Chatham and not Pitt county? Why is Jacksonville the county seat of Onslow and not Jacksonville county?
Or to continue: Why is not Averyville in Avery county and why is Mooreville not in Moore county and Scotland Neck in Scotland county, or why is the capital of Vance county Henderson when there is a county by that name? Why didn't Vanceboro get to be the capital of Vance county instead of getting shot down in Heaven and why is Madison not the county seat of Madison county? And why did the folks of Wayne not get the name for their county seat before Haywood took it from them.
Reason there must be, to be sure, for the naming of every one of the places. Maybe the counties in those days had more people they wanted to show honors, and named the county after the man and the county seat after another, not thinking that another county might some day get hard up for a name and hang it on to a town. But it is mighty confusing sometimes.
And to conclude with, why does Lindsay Warren, the gentleman from Beaufort, get his mail at Washington, N. C., and the gentleman from Washington, Mr. Martin, have to get his mail at a place called Plymouth, Verily North Carolina has a badly scrambled map, and it works to the vast confusion of a lot of people who come to be speaker of the General Assembly. GIRL WAS GROWN UP ONCE AT 18 OR 20; NOW IT'S 14, SAYS WOMAN DRAMATIST

BY MARION HALE (Special to The Bee)

"A GIRL used to be considered 'grown up'," says Rachel Crothers, writer, playwright and theatrical producer, at 18 or 20.

"Now she's mature at 14."

"Unless a mother realizes this, she begins then and there to widen the gap that grows naturally between age and youth."

Gone for Good.
"The sensationally modern young woman who flashed before our vision during the war—the product of freedom, passion and faithfulness—has softened a trifle and will develop into a more normal, healthy personality."

"But we never shall have a return to the pre-war type."

When I asked her what the consequence of the war's change was, Miss Crothers answered:
"Physical freedom, modern dress, dancing, lack of chaperones, the general letting down of conventions and standards."

But what grown people won't understand is that, while their minors of today haven't their parents' standards, they have their own.

Their Own Standards.
"The up-to-date young man demands from a girl different qualifications from those his father sought, and women naturally see what men make them. The modern man would rather have a companion than a cook. He wants a girl to be sensible, but he wants some ornamental variety, too. He comprehends a girl's desire to have some career besides her domestic children. He appreciates her need for intellectual companionship. He has learned that, if she has talent, she should not submerge it in marriage."

"If the golden age ever comes, it will be when every woman is economically independent—when common sense and honesty have supplanted the hypocrisy and ignorance that have raised the barriers which separate fathers and mothers from their children, making a problem out of young people."

RACHEL CROTHERS
